HEAT RECORD IS UNBROKEN TODAY

Hottest Day This Summer Was Yesterday With 97 Degrees Recorded, and 94 Today Noon

INTENSE HUMIDITY ALL NIGHT

Weather Bureau Predicts Relief in Sight With Thunderstorms Late Today or Tonight

Occasional clouds today prevented the mercury from equalling the heat record set Monday, when the thermometer at Maury, in charge of Elwood Kirkwood, recorded 97 degrees as the hottest day this summer.

The mercury at one o'clock this afternoon had mounted up to 94 degrees, and indications were that it would go a little higher this afternoon, as the record is usually set in the middle of the afternoon.

At noon yesterday it was 95 degrees, and the mercury went up two more degrees during the afternoon, according to Mr. Kirkwood. The mercury did not fall very rapidly even after the sun went down, and the humidity was intense all during the night.

The weather bureau at Indianapolis today was predicting some relief, with possibly thunderstorms late today or tonight, and with cooler weather Wednesday.

Showers Are Predicted

Indianapolis, Aug. 5.—Little relief is in prospect before late today from the heat wave which sent the thermometer soaring to 96 yesterday afternoon, a record for the summer, according to weather bureau forecasts.

Local thunderstorms late this afternoon are expected to bring temporary relief.

The highest temperature in the state was reported at Bloomington where the mercury reached 99. Other places reported temperatures ranging from 94 to 97.

Thermometers on downtown street in Indianapolis stood at 94 at 12 noon. One heat prostration was reported in the state, Mrs. Edward Bowman overcome at Greensburg while berry picking.

Hundreds of persons in Indianapolis spent most of the night at parks and bathing places in an effort to escape the heat.

Cooler Weather Coming

Washington, Aug. 5.—Cooler weather will overtake the Ohio and middle Mississippi rivers and lower lake region tomorrow night, the weather bureau predicted today.

Series of thunderstorms throughout this region tomorrow will break the heat wave.

THREE ROAD GRADERS PURCHASED BY COUNTY

Commissioners Also Receive Many Bids on Gravel For Road Work Various Communities

STONE BIDS ALSO OPENED

Gravel and stone supplies for the roads of Rush county were received Monday afternoon when the county commissioners met for that purpose in connection with their regular session, and more than 20 bids on gravel were received from all sections of the county.

Bids on stone also were received from the quarries to side tracks located in different points of the county.

In this connection, the board also received bids on road equipment machinery, and awarded the contract to Kiger and Company for three road graders. One road grader, an 8 foot Jarmin "road fixer" was bought for $242 and two 10 foot "fixers" were purchased at $249 each.

The Indiana Electric Corporation of Indianapolis also filed their notice with the county board of entering the county with a high tension electric line from Indianapolis to serve the American Paper Products company at Carthage.

WAS MARRIED AT AGE OF 13

Corean Cates Seeks Marriage Annulment in Court Here

A suit seeking to have her marriage annulled, charging that she was only 13 years of age when married, has been filed in the circuit court by Corean Cates, by her next friend, Barney Adams of this city, against Elwin Cates.

The complaint says they were married March 12, 1923 and separated May 22, 1924. The plaintiff alleges that because of her age, she was not capable of negotiating a marriage legally, and that she was not aware of what she was doing. Her husband lives in Mount Vernon, Ill., according to the complaint.

BOYCOTT CITED, FEARS BIG LOSS

A. R. Martner, Manager of Mays Telephone Exchange, Says Farmers Organized Against Them

RATE BOOSTED 25 CENTS

Spiceland and Mays Exchange, Owned Jointly, Cannot Survive The Financial Loss

The telephone exchange at Mays, in northern Rush county, is facing bankruptcy, according to A. R. Martner, manager of the Spiceland telephone company, that owns and operates the two exchanges. The cause of the alarm is due to a boycott on account of the increase in rates that became effective August 1.

Since the first of the month, 120 rural subscribers have ordered their phones removed, the manager asserts.

Martner charges a deliberate boycott and conspiracy on the part of the farmers in discontinuing telephone service and asserts that it will be only a question of time until his company is in federal court. When the case reaches federal court, the boycott and alleged conspiracy may take on a serious aspect.

The order of the commission was issued on June 27 and the new rates became effective August 1. The rates in Mays and Spiceland were unchanged and the principal increase was made on rural telephone, these being boosted from $1.25 a month to $1.50 a month.

The figures before the public service commission showed that the company had a deficit of $330.30 on its net income last year and that the deficit for the first three months of 1924 was $354.91. The rate established was contemplated to provide the company with about $1,300 additional revenue.

Mr. Martner estimates that with 120 subscribers quitting, the company will lose $2,100 revenue annually and that it will be impossible to operate the two exchanges very long with this loss of revenue. The utility is in a peculiar situation. Its earning power is limited by the public service commission and this fact seems to have been lost sight of by the farmers. It is pointed out that the farmers have recourse in the courts in case they are dissatisfied with the commission's order.

Two and one-half years ago the rates of the company were increased, and under a threat of a large loss in subscribers, the rates were modified. Officials of the company say they have reached the point where the additional revenue is absolutely required. At the hearing before the public service commission no great fight was made over the proposed increase in rates, but as soon as the order was issued, it is charged, meetings were held and a concerted effort made to get subscribers to discontinue the service.

Martner states that the subscribers in the two towns are remaining loyal to the company and that the sole kick seems to be coming from the farmers. It is a peculiar situation. If the company is forced into the hands of a receiver the rates would be unchanged because under the law a utility is entitled to a reasonable return on the investment. It is not likely the commission would sanction another telephone company in Spiceland as the field is not large enough for competition. The plant will probably continue to Continued on Page Two

STREET PROJECTS PROGRESSING FAST

All Concrete Laid on Morgan Street, Ready for Asphalt Coating Within Short Time

BOULEVARD ROCK BEING LAID

The laying of concrete on Morgan street was completed last Monday, indicating an early completion of the asphalt street which has been under construction this summer. Now that all of the concrete has been laid, the next step will be to place the asphalt coating on top, for a thickness of two inches.

The machinery used in placing the asphalt is now completing a job at Newcastle and will be brought here as soon as the work is finished in that city. The concrete has to stand ten days before it can be used, and it is expected that the asphalt machinery will not be shipped here for two weeks, and after that, the construction work can be finished within a few days time.

The work of constructing Memorial Park Boulevard in the northwest portion of the city, around the park, is now under way in full blast, and the laying of the heavy rock foundation is progressing rapidly.

BIG FOUR MAY PUT ON GASOLINE CARS

Have Been Giving Them a Test on Some Divisions, And May Adopt Them for Locals

SEEN HERE MONTHS AGO

Cars propelled by gasoline are now being given a thorough test by officials of the Big Four railroad company and will probably be placed in operation on several divisions of the company before winter. It has been reported that there is a possibility of the motor cars being used on the Martinsville division from Fairland and on the Columbus division from Greensburg, where traffic is not so heavy as on the main lines. It is also understood that one of the cars might replace a passenger train No. 36 between Indianapolis and Cincinnati.

One of the cars was made at Washburn several months ago and made a Continued on Page Three

SIGHT FLIERS NEAR ICELAND

Found the World Aviators Reported to be Nearing the Port at Reykjavik

BAD WEATHER IN SIGHT

Conditions Favorable Today, But Next Lap to Greenland Showed Bad Weather Signs

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 5.—The American round the world fliers were sighted sailing toward port here at 12:17 p. m. today.

Aboard the U. S. S. Richmond, Hornafjord, Iceland, Aug. 5. (By wireless to the United Press)—Today's lap of the American world flight, which was to be resumed by Lieut. Lowell Smith and Eric Nelson, if weather permits, was from Hornafjord, skirting the Iceland coast to Reykjavik.

The little naval flotilla that is guarding the route swung into position, the cruiser Raleigh acting as station ship at Hornafjord, the Billingsley going to Portland, the Red to a point 20 miles off Reykjavik, while the scout cruiser Richmond, acting as flagship, was due at the fliers' destination at 2 p. m.

Conditions appeared fairly good for flying over the 310 mile route from Iceland, but those at Greenland, whether the airmen go next were reported most unfavorable.

From now on there will be but two American world flight planes for Lieut. Leigh Wade has given up hopes of rejoining his companions.

The plane, the Boston, sank in the sea near the Faeroe Islands.

"I am waiting orders from the war department, Lieut. Wade said. "But I see no possibility of continuing the flight, unless another machine and parts were shipped to Kirkwall."

Britisher Drops Out

Cordova, Alaska, Aug. 5.—"For the sake of the Royal Air Force, I am sorry to have failed so. The condition of the plane makes it impossible for flying," Major A. Stuart McLaren wiredless to the British Air Ministry at London today from the British cruiser Thetys.

The airman abandoned his world flight, of which he had covered slightly more than 11,000 miles, because of a crash at Nikolski, in the Kammandorski Islands, off Siberia.

ACCIDENT VICTIM IS BURIED TODAY

Everett McDaniel, Age 18, of Near Arlington, Succumbs From Pneumonia That Developed

INJURED RIDING A BICYCLE

The funeral services for Everett Lawrence McDaniel, eighteen year old son of Elzie McDaniel, residing south of Arlington, who died Sunday morning at the Major Hospital in Shelbyville, were held this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Wesleyan Methodist church north of Manila, and burial took place in the Arlington cemetery. The services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Glover.

The deceased died of pneumonia that developed from injuries he suffered in an accident three weeks ago. The young man was riding a bicycle on the road between Arlington and Gwynnville, and was struck by an automobile. He was taken to the hospital in Shelbyville for an examination. A broken arm and internal injuries were found and his condition was considered serious from the start. A post mortem examination of the body revealed a crushed chest that caused the pneumonia condition which was the direct cause of the death.

Following the death the body was taken to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John McDaniel living south of Arlington. Besides the father and grandparents, the boy is survived by one sister Miss Opal McDaniel, at home.

TAKEN TO PRISON FROM HERE

State Authorities Revoke Parole of Davidson Riley

Davidson Riley, the self confessed chicken thief, who was arrested several weeks ago when poultry dealers suspected him, has been taken back to the state prison in violation of his parole.

When he was arrested and placed in jail, he was out on a parole from the prison, having been sentenced from here on a forgery charge. He served a portion of his sentence, and was released last September. In revoking his sentence, he will have to continue serving the time on the forgery sentence, until the state authorities release him. Riley lived at Straughns, in Henry county.

SAYS LOEB HAS DISEASED MIND

Boston Psychiatrist, Witness at Judicial Hearing, Continues Testimony at Trial

HE CITES SIX REASONS

Self-Confessed Murder Has Twisted Emotions and Vivid Fantasies, He Declares

By EDWIN C. DERR
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Criminal Court Room, Chicago August 5.—Richard Loeb has a "thoroughly diseased mind," Dr. Wm. Healy, Boston psychiatrist, testified at the judicial hearing of Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., for the murder of Robert Franks when it was resumed at 10:33 a. m. today.

"That is the conclusion I have reached after a thorough examination of Loeb," the psychiatrist said. "This conclusion, Dr. Healy said, was based on the following reasons:

- 1.—His abnormal inner mental life.
- 2.—His twisted emotions.
- 3.—His lack of sympathy for others.
- 4.—His lack of feeling for his own misconduct.
- 5.—His vivid fantasies.
- 6.—His pathological split personality.

"The fact that he carried his vivid fantasies over into every day life of activity and because it is unthinkable that a mentally normal person would commit such a heinous crime, I am even more convinced that my conclusions are correct," the witness said.

"I have watched their actions in the court room and they only tend to confirm my opinion."

The crime is a direct result of diseased motivation of Loeb's mental life, Dr. Healy said. "Loeb's twisted emotional life and Loeb's coming together with another abnormal personality in the person of Leopold caused the consummation of the crime," the witness said.

"This most remarkable affair was caused by the coming together of these two boys each with abnormal characters," the doctor said.

Chief Defense Attorney Clarence Darrow personally brought out the fact that the doctor is receiving $250 a day and then he turned him over to State Attorney Robert Crowe for examination.

Medical testimony introduced by the defense in the Leopold-Loeb murder hearing will be used against the youth slayers of Robert Franks, by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, according to plans practically completed today.

Crowe believes he can turn the defense evidence to the advantage of the prosecution and force the question of the sanity of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb before a jury.

The state has been given what Crowe terms a "solid grip" by the statement of Dr. Wm. Healy, Boston psychiatrist, that the boys are mentally diseased and mentally unbalanced.

This analysis of the mental condition of the slayers "means nothing more or less than legal insanity," Crowe told the United Press. If he can't send the boys to the gallows, Crowe hopes to send them to an asylum for the criminal insane. Crowe believes Dr. Healy's assertion shows beyond a doubt the need for a jury to pass on the mental of the boys. He also believes the evidence of the defense alienists will convince a jury the youths are insane. Crowe was in Continued on Page Three

INSTITUTE HERE

ALL NEXT WEEK

Morning Sessions for County Teachers will be Held at Court House as in Former Years

GOOD INSTRUCTORS NAMED

Dr. Vincent Will Return and Mrs. Martha Stubbs will be in Charge of Work

The Rush County Teachers' Institute will again be a part of the annual Rush County Chautauqua, and the instructors, have been obtained for the week. The sessions for the institute will be held in the assembly room at the court house, as in former years.

The teachers are offered combination tickets, with the Chautauqua, which includes all fees. Two percent will be added to the general average on a teacher's license for perfect attendance at all sessions of the institute.

Officers and committees for the institute, which will be held next week, are as follows:

B. F. Farthing, chairman of institute; Miss Dora McKay, secretary; B. D. Farthing, J. H. Scholl, E. B. Butler, A. M. Taylor, R. L. Power, program committee; A. M. Taylor, Blythe Seales, John M. Koeh, Normal V. Patterson, Grant Cooper, Resolution Committee.

The instructors of the institute are Dr. Leon H. Vincent, Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Martha J. Stubbs, Indianapolis, Indiana. In securing the services of Dr. Vincent and Mrs. Stubbs the teachers, and the people of Rush County are to be congratulated. Dr. Vincent has been for a number of years, a member of the staff at the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and has delivered of there more than a hundred lectures. For five seasons he has given courses at the University of Chicago and at Columbia University—his lectures deal with Great English and American Men of Letters.

Last year he gave us Great American Men of Letters—this year, he brings for our consideration Great English Men of Letters. Mrs. Martha J. Stubbs, co-worker with Dr. Vincent, in this year's institute program was formerly connected with the city schools in Indianapolis, as a teacher and later as a special supervisor of regular class room work. She has had quite an extensive experience in public school work and is a widely known lecturer on Child Psychology. She has a real message for rural and city teachers.

Miss Alice Piersol, Jamestown, Indiana, will have charge of the Music. Miss Piersol is the County Supervisor of Music for the ensuing year, recently elected in this position by the County Board of Education. For the last four years she has been the Assistant Supervisor of Music in Hendricks county, and comes to this county with quite a reputation.

SHERIFF HUNT HAS FIVE MEN TO BOARD

County Jail Assumes the Role of a Busy Place With Many Arrests Within Few Days

ANOTHER ONE FOR CONTEMPT

Sheriff S. L. Hunt has a house full of boarders today, and the jail has had frequent visitors during the past week. The latest arrest is Albert Theunis, who was arrested near Winchester on a complaint from this court, charging him with contempt of court.

The sheriff has five prisoners, four of whom are unable to give bond. The other one, Russell Bebout is serving a 30 day jail sentence on a liquor law violation. Theunis will be held until September 1, unless he can provide $1,000 bond. He is charged with failing to comply with orders of the court following a divorce hearing.

The other prisoners who are unable to give bond are Walter Booneshine of near Knightstown, who is held on a charge of manufacturing liquor, and whose bond is $5,000; Gerard Goodin who is held on a robbery charge, with bond of $1,500; Cleve Holt, who is held on a charge of larceny, in connection with grain thefts from John Gray.

Motorists Want to Know

Motorists frequently put this question to attendants at service stations of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana):

"Is it not a fact that gasoline prices vary more throughout the United States than do the prices of any other product?"

The answer is quoted from the Oil and Gas Journal issue of June 12, 1924:

"Gasoline prices are more uniform than most of the widely utilized commodities. Thirty-five states have gasoline taxes varying in amounts from 1 to 4 cents. This fact would necessitate a difference in retail prices of as great as 4 cents in some states. Crude oil is found in a comparatively small area of the United States and this fact also necessitates variations in the retail prices due largely to the difference in transportation costs from the crude producing fields and the refineries to the gasoline consuming areas. The price differences, however, are not as great as in many other products. For instance, a recent monthly survey made by the United States Bureau of Labor covering twenty-nine cities scattered throughout the United States showed the following high and low range in prices in several commodities: Sirloin steak, 26 to 61.5 cents per lb.; sugar, 9.6 to 12.7 cents per lb.; bituminous coal, $4.50 to $17.40 per ton; flour, 3.3 to 5.5 cents per lb., and oranges, 27.9 to 49.5 cents per dozen. The low in gasoline prices for the same cities was 12.3 cents and the high 20 cents. The survey was made last December when gasoline prices were lower than they are at the present although the same price range is in effect."

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) serves the automobiling public by maintaining at convenient intervals throughout the Middle West, an efficient chain of service stations, which sell gasoline and oils of uniform high quality, at prices as nearly uniform as freight rates and tax laws permit.

The price of gasoline sold by this Company is subject only to the uncertainties of economic laws, which no commodities may avoid.

This highly trained organization of 27,000 men and women is straining every nerve and fibre that you may have gasoline when and where you want it—of highest quality and at a price which is fair, equitable and low at all times.

MOVIES

Thrilling Picture

"Vengeance of the Deep," the big undersea picture which comes to the Castle theatre today, besides being highly unusual is intensely thrilling as well. Produced by A. B. Barringer in the Hawaiian Islands, the cast includes Ralph Lewis, Virginia Brown Faire, Van Matamore, Harmon McGregor, William Anderson, "Smoke" Turner, Maida Vale and score of natives.

It is a story of the South Seas and centers around the great pearl fisheries, any number of thrills coming from episodes on the bottom of the ocean. These are the most extraordinary submarine scenes ever filmed, for instead of showing the customary views of men in unwieldy divers' suits, the characters freely move and "act" quite as if they were in a motion picture studio.

This was made possible by Mr. Barringer's invention of a special helmet which generates its own air, thus doing away with the usual pipes which enable men to breathe far below the surface of the water. In "Vengeance of the Deep" the characters are clothed as they would be in the open air and consequently are more easily seen in the dim spaces of the oceanic panorama.

"Lilies of the Field" Coming

Another frank and refreshing picturization of American life is coming to the Princess theatre Wednesday and Thursday in First National's production of "Lilies of the Field," which has been pronounced by many critics as a masterpiece of emotional appeal. Owing to the huge success which has attended previous showings of this photodrama, the theatre is making extensive preparations to handle capacity audiences.

The picture is notable in so many respects that it is difficult to describe it adequately, or to list its outstanding features in point of merit. Taken as a whole, it is declared to be one of the most perfect pictures that have ever been shown on the screen.

This talented pair of stars are being hailed far and wide as "the screen's ideal lovers," and their work in "Black Oxen" inspired many thousands of fans to write to the producers, pleading that both be included in future productions. Their appearance in "Lilies of the Field" is a direct answer to that plea from the public.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service WriterWASHINGTON—Here's a problem for our experts on the advance of civilizationWashington, capital city of "the most advanced nation on earth," the seat of America's law-making power, center of educational and social culture, having in its population a higher percentage of "college" folk and a lower percentage of illiteracy than any similarly large city, is close to the top of the list in per capita average of arrests made for violations of law!Figures just compiled for the year ending July 1 show that on an average, one inhabitant out of six was arrested for some form or other of lawlessness during the last 12 months.That, it must be admitted, isn't a very good record. Certainly it is not a good record for the city whose chief business is the making and administering of laws for the rest of the nation.It represents an average of almost one arrest per family, on the basis of five persons to a family.With such an example on the part of the capital city, which might be expected to set the pace in the observance of law and recognition of the responsibilities of citizenship, how can the population of less "advanced" cities, where laws and patriotism and civic duty are not so constantly stressed, be expected to regard seriously their obligations to walk punctiliously within the law?ANALYSIS of the statistics of these arrests show that automobiles and booze are at the root of the increase.Total arrests for violation of the liquor laws were 13,921. For disregard of automobile laws, 47,025 arrests were made, 9876 being for speeding and 23,228 for traffic "violations."Major Dan Sullivan, superintendent of police, who, in connection with prohibition, describes Washington as "a hip-pocket town," explains the statistics by saying that Washington isn't growing more lawless but that the police are more vigilant.So much for Washington's failure to live up to the laws she has made.Now for a law she'd like to have, but hasn't.Much more than additional "prohibitive" laws, saying "what must not be done," Washington would like a "permissive" law, granting authority for the development of the water power now running to waste
in the Potomac river at Great Falls, 15 miles above the capital.Such a law, which is recommended by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, would make available 150,000 horsepower of energy, save some hundreds of thousands of tons of coal annually relieve congestion in freight transportation, and otherwise make Washington a better capital to live in.Washington would hail this law with joy, and doubtless would give bond that it wouldn't result in a single additional arrest, unless a few power company capitalists should have to be restrained from committing violence.The Hodge - Podge

SAFETY SAM

Readin' th' headlines now days, we gotta wonder whether th' average driver'll ever get wise 't' th' fact that railroads, trolley tracks an' sharp turns aint proper places 't' try 't' bust any speed records!Where His "Fresh Air"
Had Come FromYOU know the classic story. Sleepy lodger, bothered with asthma. Couldn't budge the stubborn window.
Awoke stifled. Heaved a shoe where the pane showed in the dark. Crash of splintered glass. Peaceful slumber. But morning revealed the mirror shattered instead of the window.Power of imagination. Set it down to that and nothing else when your motoring acquaintance claims that
"cheap gas runs as well in hot weather as good gas."
His "fresh air" comes from the slightly easier starting which higher temperatures bring to poorest fuels. His cold-weather canniness falls into gentle slumber without reckoning the fact that fuel unfit for winter use must be by very nature unfit for summer driving.Silver Flash needs none. The same superiorities that make it universally preferred for winter driving are the precise qualities that distinguish it as the correct fuel for use the year around. By intrinsic nature it's all gasoline, quick firing, rich in power, full burning without residue. Its qual-

FIRPO SHOULD WIN WITH RIGHT RULES

By FRANK GETTY
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)
New York, Aug. 5—Fistic treats, such as the Firpo-Wills match would seem to promise, so often disintegrate into thin air for one reason or another, that it is a relief to see everything indicate that the proposed bout will come off on schedule.

The big black already is in training, and Firpo, although he brought considerable avoidances, together with his other troubles, along with him from South America, lost little time in making tracks for a gymnasium and showing his wares.

Particularly proud is Senor Firpo of his new left hand. Although he complains occasionally of rheumatism in his port elbow, he never loses an opportunity to point with pride to his new-found weapon of offense.

If the South American really can work up a snappy left-hand punch, even if it is only good for jabbing and leading, and if the referee is as good at making Wills fight cleanly as on the occasion of the negro's bout with Bartley Madden, Firpo should take the dusky heavyweight's measure.

Wills, it will be recalled, showed against Madden a woeful lack of ability to fight without holding. He is quick, agile and powerful, and if permitted to clamp his left arm down upon his opponent's wrist and flail away with his own right, he is a dangerous man for anyone to meet, even Dempsey. But forced to stand off and fight in the open, Wills looked bad against the game little Irishman who won so much glory that night over in Lon Island City by standing up to the negro for 15 rounds.

It is doubtful if Wills could stand up under the punishment conveyed by the "Wild Bull's" right. Harry has an excellent defense, and might well weather the storm for a good many rounds, but Firpo has shown an indomitable toughness and ability to keep hammering away, and sooner or later it seems certain he would wear Wills down.

Just now, the Argentine champion is fat, but he will have no difficulty in getting into condition. He talked of fighting a couple of "set-ups" before meeting the ex-stevedore, but Tex Rickard had the final say as to that.

Firpo is nothing if not confident. He feels that he should have beaten Dempsey when they met, and has one or two alibis. He professes to hold Wills rather lightly, and to regard the match as a stepping-stone to a return bout with Jack Dempsey.

The latter's injuries may have further postponed the date of his return to the ring; certainly it is not likely he will be seen in action before the outdoor season of 1925.

It was the prospect of a bout with Dempsey this year, however, which lured Firpo from South America, the Argentine said.

The Browns won their sixth victory in the last seven games when they hung up a 5-1 win against Washington.

SEATS ON SALE FOR BIG FIGHT

Advance Demand Indicates Record Crowd For Wills-Firpo Scrap September 11

100,000 FANS ARE EXPECTED

Too Far Ahead to Pick a Winner. Although From This Distance, it Looks Like "Firpo"

By FRANK GETTY
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 5—Seats go on sale today for the Wills-Firpo fight at Boyle's Thirty Acres on September 11 and from the advance demand there isn't a doubt in the world but that the bout will draw more spectators than any previous encounter in which a title was not at stake.

Tex Rickard, surveying an early August snowstorm of telegrams and letters demanding seats, already is talking of squeezing 100,000 fans into the Jersey City stadium.

Thus Harry Wills, whom we rather wrote out of things after his poor showing against little Bartley Madden over in Brooklyn a couple of months back, gets his chance at a big fight and big money after all.

And Firpo despite his "retirement" his affairs with second raters in the Argentine and his myriad activities outside the prize ring, finds another foothold on the ladder to the world's heavyweight championship.

It is rather too far ahead to pick a winner with any certainty but from this distance, we would say "Firpo". The big South American has begun his colorful training stunts at Spa, losing no time in getting behind a wicket that clicks off a dollar apiece from those who would watch him work out.

Harry Wills is out at Southampton, L. I., rounding slowly into shape.

Preliminary betting makes the men even money choices. But with what Wills showed and failed to show against Madden, there seems every possibility that if Firpo can get himself into as good shape as he was against Dempsey, he should be able to take all the black can give and wear down and flatten his man within ten rounds or so. Wills might even stand up for the limit, which would be a most unsatisfactory outcome in view of the fact that these two are in there more for a crack at Jack Dempsey than for anything else.

Wills showed an unfortunate inability to fight effectively at long range and to fight at all without his old trick of holding and hitting. When the referee in the Madden bout made him stop this, the negro was rather helpless.

Firpo, on the other hand is dangerous anywhere within the radius of that terrible right arm.

HANK GOWDY GETS UNUSAL MENTION

New York Giant's Catcher, Who Enlisted In World War Gets Army Field Named For Him

FIRST LEAGUER TO ENLIST

BY FRANK GETTY
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 5—Unusual honor comes today to Hank Gowdy, lanky catcher of the New York Giants.

The United States army and organized baseball have united to make the bashful veteran as uncomfortable as possible with speeches, engrossed testimonials, a military review and a lot of applause.

All this because Hank back in 1917 "jumped" the National League for the bigger game and went overseas for two years' service in the ranks of the A. E. F. Gowdy was the first big league ball player to enlist, showing the way eventually to a good many others.

The occasion is the formal informing of Hank that a government ball park and athletic field at Fort Benning, Ga., has been named "Gowdy Field" in his honor.

The ceremony saves a little of the notifying of Davis and Mr. Coolidge that they have nominated standard bearers of their party, because Gowdy already knows about it.

"Why didn't you name it after Eddie Grant?" he asked straightforwardly. "I came back, but Eddie (former New York captain) didn't."

NEW PLAYERS ADDED ON RUSHVILLE CLUB

Local Baseball Team Will Journey to Shelbyville Sunday With Stronger Team

NOONAN SIGNED TO PITCH

The Rushville baseball club will appear in the field again Sunday, after a short rest, and several new players have been added with the hope of increasing interest in the sport, and incidentally defeat some of the best teams in this vicinity.

The local club will take on the Shelbyville team in that city Sunday, and they expect to even up for the defeat handed here. Local rooters are urged to make the trip and witness the contest.

The local management announces that Noonan, former International League star will pitch for the locals against Shelbyville, while Redmond will be on the mound for that city. Rushville will also have a fast, hard hitting short stop in Fessel, who has been playing in the Three I League. The following players are asked to report at the diamonds here for practice on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week: A. Joyce, M. Joyce, Sharp, Shar, McCarty, Pearsey, Byrne and Yazel. Practice to start at 5 o'clock. The management expects to book the fastest teams around here for future games.

Cleveland pounded several Boston pitchers unmercifully and came out on top of a 11-5 game.

New York—Kid Sullivan, junior lightweight champion, signed to meet Pepper Martin at the Queensboro stadium August 13.

SECOND ROUND IS STARTED IN TOURNEY

State Golf Tourney Is In Second Day Of The Meet On Big Course At Fort Wayne

COMPETITION IS KEEN

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 5—The second qualifying round of 18 holes was being played at the Fort Wayne country club today in the state golf tourney.

Jack Tuitt, Highland Golf and country club, Indianapolis, and W. E. Martin, Riverside Club, Indianapolis, turned in low scores of 72 in the opening round yesterday.

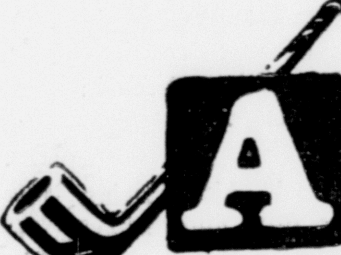

Tuitt went out and back in 36, 36, par for the course. Martin was one over per going out and one under par coming in, leaving him tied with Tuitt.

E. Dollman, Pleasant Run Club, J. Ledbetter, Michigan City and Robert Resener, Kokomo, were close behind the two leaders with scores of 73.

A total of 24 turned in cards in the seventies. The competition is much keener this year than at the Muncie tourney last year, and indications are that a score of around 165 will be necessary to win a place among the 32 who will compete in the match play.

Mrs. Will Trennepohl entertained with a card party Monday evening at her home in Beuna Vista Avenue. The guests gathered around the six tables and spent a most enjoyable evening with Bridge. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

The former pupils and present pupils of Mrs. Lucy Wellman Meredith's music classes will hold a picnic at Memorial Park in this city

Wednesday. The program will begin at ten o'clock and will continue throughout the day with a pitch-in dinner at the noon hour.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Alter, living southwest of this city entertained several guests at dinner Sunday, including Mrs. Elsie Griffith of Long Beach, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Rella Alter and daughter Beulah of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Seall and daughter Dorothy of near Milroy.

Miss Anna Mary Cowan entertained with a rook party Monday evening at her home in West Fourth street, honoring Miss Edna Stephenson of Monmouth, Ill., who is visiting Miss Cowan and Anna and Elizabeth Waite. Other guests were Miss Florence Elliott and Miss Frances McKibben. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch were served after the rook games.

Miss Hattie Emmons was hostess to the members of the Young Ladies Mission Circle Monday evening at her home in North Sexton street. She was ably assisted by the Misses Zora Carney and Florine Gronier and Mrs. Curt Hester. Miss Gronier sang a beautiful solo, accompanied on the piano by Miss Virginia Lucas, and Miss Lucas played several piano selections. The regular missionary program was given following the musical numbers. During the social hour delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The Woman's Missionary Society

and the Girl's Circle of the Little Flatrock Christian church will have a combined meeting at the church Thursday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Maxie Brooks will act as the leader of the following program: scripture reading, Miss Dorothy Manzy; Lord's prayer; bible study, Miss Marian Tittsworth; duet, Florence Carney and Rena Mae Norris; lesson given by Mrs. Anna Heaton; Golden Jubilee Song closing with the hidden answers. The Saunders division will act as hostesses.

Recently a most enjoyable social event occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Harden of this city, when relatives called and spent the day with them. Those present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Griffin Lewark and family and Oscar Gwinn of Fortville, Mr. and Mrs. August Candell of Pendleton, Ed Hunter of Connersville and Mrs. Minnie Fenseth and children of Greensburg. At the noon hour a bountiful pitch-in dinner was served and the remainder of the day was spent socially with music on the piano by Elbert Lewark.

Mrs. Melvin Goddard entertained Sunday with a surprise pitch-in dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Goddard at Manilla honoring the birthdays of Mrs. N. L. Goddard, Melvin Goddard, Jr., and Will Jones. The decoration for the table was a beautiful bouquet of gladioli sent by Mrs. Nellie Goddard and Mrs. Favors Lower of near Homer. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Orie Winkler of Windfall, Mr. and Mrs. Roy

Price of Kokomo, Mr. and Mrs. George Bramfield and children, Philip, Lorna and Arthur of Tipton, Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Jones and son Thomas E. of Rushville, Mr. and Mrs. Will Jones and daughter Ellen Louise, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Mull and daughter Elvira, Lydia Hurst and Nellie Jones of near Rushville, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Shepherd, Jennie Rawlings, Mrs.

Melvin Goddard and children Goldie, Gene, Gene Claire and Melvin, Jr., of Manilla.

A pleasant event was celebrated Sunday with a reunion of the McCrory, Brown and Parrish families, in honor of the eightieth birthday anniversary of Martha McCrory, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. L. Aiken, of Raleigh. One hundred guests were present. Among those from a distance were Mrs. Anne Hughes Wolcott, Mrs. Mary Gray and son James and family of Tipton, Mrs. Lina Hahn of Eaton, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray of Middletown, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Laughlin of Muncie, William Brown and family of Spiceland, John Parrish and family and Marjorie Parrish of Indianapolis, Mrs. Elsie Jeffrey of Connersville, Dr. D. H. Dean and family of Rushville, Clarence Carr and family of Glenwood, Mrs. Cecile Estell and son William of Oklahoma City, Okla.

NOTED QUARTET FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Adanae Quartet, Foremost of Male Singers. Will be Here on Closing Day August 17

ASSEMBLY BEGINS ON SUNDAY

Program Committee Has Made it a Point to Have Headline Attraction Each Day

One of the finest male quartets on the annual Chautauqua season tour this year, will be in Rushville on August 17, the closing day of the Rush County Chautauqua, and although the assembly opens Sunday August 10th, every day is planned as a banner day.

In preparing the program this year the committee in charge made it a point not to designate any particular day, and they made up the varied program to suit all tastes.

The Adanae Quartet, which comes on the closing, is one of the highest priced musical organizations to appear. Each singer has a wide reputation, and the attraction will no doubt leave a good impression with the audience.

The quartet will give the entire program in the afternoon, and provide an hour's prelude at night. They will be followed at night with an address by Prof. Ray Moulton of Chicago University, a noted lecturer on astronomy.

The Adanae Quartet was organized several years ago and is recognized today throughout Canada and the United States as one of the foremost male quartets, appearing before the public. It has often been said that four soloists singing in ensemble could not get that perfect blend and unanimity of tone so essential when singing together as a quartet. How completely and finally that fallacy has been shattered is demonstrated by the wonderful, luscious, and organ-like quality of tone that these four gentlemen produce.

They sing with perfect ease and a proper conception and consideration for shading with splendid legato and dramatic effects that not only thrill and become mighty in interpretation but please and soothe an audience at all times, no matter how particular and critical it may be.

Imagine four skilled solo instrumentalists playing a concerted number. Pick out, if you can, the different instruments. Here are four vocal soloists, famed throughout the continent.

FARM BOYS CAMP FOR STATE FAIR

Will be Taught Farming Methods by Experts, as a New Feature for the Fair

SIMILAR TO BOY SCOUT CAMP

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 5—A camp where Indiana farm boys will be taught farming methods will be one of the features of the Indiana State Fair here, Sept. 5 to 11 this year, according to members of the state fair board today.

The camp will be on the northwest part of the ground and will be on the order of a Boy Scout encampment. It will be conducted similar to the school for girls which is held at the fair annually. The boys will be under the supervision and instruction of M. L. Hall and Fred Ken, both of Purdue University.

They will be housed in barracks 130 by 40 ft. which will accommodate 160 cots and is equipped with showers and other modern conveniences.

Three scholarships will be awarded to boys attaining the highest records.

The normal girls institute will be conducted during the week of the fair and the week preceding. Intensive courses in home economics with demonstrations including courses in cook, sewing, needlework, canning, preserving, home sanitation, and decoration will be conducted. Five scholarships will be given.

Both the girls and boys attending at the fair will be chosen from every county in the state from farm and home economics clubs through merit contests conducted by local domestic science organizations, farm bureaus and chambers of commerce.

EARLY HISTORY OF CHURCHES IN ORANGE TOWNSHIP, RUSH COUNTY

By THE REV. JOHN T. SCULL

In 1849 the first church was built in Orange township, Rush county. It was called Ebenezer Methodist Episcopal church and was two miles north of Moscow. Two or three years later another M. E. church was built two miles west of Moscow, and was named Mt. Gerizim M. E. church. Two years later another church was built two miles west of Mt. Gerizim and was called Vienna M. E. church.

The Ebenezer church in that day was considered a large building. It was often crowded with persons eager to hear the preaching. The building was devoid of paint inside and out. The pulpit was a large box affair boarded up on all sides. It was entered by ascending three steps, going through a door which was closed and fastened by a wooden button to keep children and dogs out. The breast board was so high that a short preacher could scarcely see over it. The windows were small and high from the floor. When services were to be held at night, it was announced for early candle lighting. The preachers asked the members to bring candles. These candles were placed in brackets which were hung on the walls on the church.

The other churches named were just about like Ebenezer except they were painted. They and five and six others outside Rush county were served by the same pastor, assisted by the local preachers. Most of them were able and efficient men though engaged in secular business during the week.

We name a few Robert McDuffee, Thomas Jones and Daniel Tevis, the latter who was a successful physician, farmer and preacher, the father of John S. Tevis and grandfather of Virgil Tevis, both able preachers and well known in Indiana and especially in Rush county.

Not many of the pastors of the early days can now be named, but we recall the name of W. T. McMullen, called the wild Irishman. At times in his enthusiasm he would leap over the pulpit into the altar, walk up and down the aisle, exhorting the people. At times many fell prostrate on the floor. Nimrod Kerriek (grandfather of Tom Mull of Manila) was another and efficient circuit rider of these early days. The three churches named are no more.

The first church in Moscow was built in about 1855. A. S. Layton was the contractor and builder. Shortly after it was erected Ebenezer and Mt. Gerizim were abandoned, the members going to Moscow and Vienna. Ebenezer was torn down. Mt. Gerizim was sold and moved out on a farm and used for a barn and crib. Vienna was replaced by a more modern church, which was burned one year ago.

The membership at Moscow came from the country north of the town. In 1873 a revival meeting was held 3 miles north of Moscow in a school house. In 1874 a church was built here and the village is now known as Gowdy. Immediately Moscow was abandoned. Later the Christian church bought the building and used it for a few years, and finally erected an up-to-date church building. The old building was sold and moved to a farm.

About 1855 Gabriel McDuffee held

NEW BRAINS, NOT NEW FACES NEEDED FOR THE MOVIES

By HAROLD E. SWISHER
(C. P. Staff Correspondent)

Hollywood, Aug. 5—Speak a few kind words in memory of the dear departed—the movie shiek is dead!

At least such is the declaration of those close in touch with the evolutionary activities in studio-land—who have an ear to the ground, or the radio, or whatever other sources of film players' gossip there are available.

Without the aid of stacomb, tanned skin or burning brown eyes, the plain type of American manhood will prevail in the fall styles of movie heroes.

The slick-haired, foreign-looking heroes are in the descendant, many critics believe. The demand among Hollywood producers picturing fall and winter movie plots is for the plain type of American. The Conway Tearles, the Thomas Meighans, the Pat O'Malley and the Milton Sills are the boys now signing contracts for the big parts.

Even the dark-skinned (and eyed) leading men with the "Latin look" are stepping out of their character and trying to appear as if they were born some where between Times Square and the Golden Gate.

In short, the vaseline-haired exponents of virtue are doing a "fade out". Patent leather hair will be conspicuous by its absence on the screen next fall. The hair will, indeed, be worn slightly ruffled. Long cigarette-holders and freshly waxed mustaches will be taboo.

Producers are getting away from freak types in leading men, and as seeking, not the collar models, but plain looking fellows who might pass for your next-door neighbor—and who you'd be glad to have for one.

The movie heroines who have to struggle up to leading men through several hundred feet of film seem to like the change, too, if expressions of opinion gained from some of cinema's fairest can be taken as typical. "I'm glad the American type of hero is coming back to his own," says Colleen Moore. "The men who played opposite me have never been the 'sheik' type. Give me John Barrymore, Lloyd Hughes, Frank Mayo or others of their ilk everytime."

Helene Chadwick chimes in with "The boys with the olive skin are fine in their place, but their place is not the characterization of the average American youth. See America first is my slogan, and that applies to leading men as well as the Grand Canyon."

So, flappers, take note! If you worship at the shrine of the movie shiek, rush to the theatre now and get your last few looks. For soon, according to the opinion in many Hollywood quarters, he will be buried alongside the movie vamp, who once commanded the spotlight but has long since been fanned down in character or pushed out of the picture.

a meeting in a grove five miles north-east of Moscow. Quite a number were gathered into the Christian church and a building was erected by A. S. Layton. This building was called the Big Flatrock Christian church. It was replaced by a new modern up-to-date building two years ago and is called Knowles-Shaw Christian Chapel in honor of the Rev. Knowles Shaw who held a very successful revival there in 1867 or 1868.

An old Lutheran church stands near the northwest corner of Orange township, but for several years has not been used as a house of worship. This church was built sometime between 1840 and 1850. Orange township has but three houses of worship. One M. E. at Gowdy; two Christian, one at Moscow, and one two miles east of Gowdy. With the good roads and convenient speedy ways of going, all that desire to do so can attend services at these churches.

ture altogether.
The screen needs new brains, not new faces. This is the contention of Harry Rapf, associate executive of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, and the accredited discoverer of some of Filmland's most promising directors and scenarists.

"The clamor for 'new faces' on the screen is just a habit," Rapf declares. "The real need of the screen is for new brains. Pictures are made over and over again with the same plots. The same scenario writers do the scripts on them. With many of them, their chief recommendation is not 'so many good pictures' but 'eight years' experience as a director' or 'so many pictures made.'"

"I was searching for new brains when I engaged Monta Bell to direct 'Broadway After Dark'. It was his first attempt. The completed picture is an excellent example of my point.

"Charlie Chaplin has never directed a feature picture before he made 'A Woman of Paris'. As a result, the picture was voted the most intelligent and original picture in many years. The reason is simply that he combined originality, new ideas and new methods of treatment, with his ability and intelligence."

For the first time in his brilliant career, Jackie Coogan is to work in New York. The little star will go east for certain scenes in his next picture, "The Rag Man", which requires a Bowery atmosphere.

Late in August, Jackie will quit his picture work for a time and prepare to sail the first week in September "in command" of a relief ship filled with food and clothing for orphans of the Near East.

WELLS COUNTY HAS HARD WHEAT

County Has Done its Bit This Season in Making Indiana Hard-Wheat Producing State

DUE TO KAEHR EXPERIMENTS

Bluffton Milling Company has Purchased 1,500 Bushels of Hard Wheat From Wells County

Bluffton, Ind., Aug. 5—Wells county has done its bit this season in making Indiana a hard-wheat producing state, it was announced here today.

Indiana, in the past has been producing mostly soft wheat and campaigns and experiments have been conducted for many years to make hard wheat production in this state successful. The flour milled from soft wheat cannot be used for making baker's bread and it has been necessary for millers throughout the state to import hard wheat from other states.

Until recently the Bluffton Milling company imported several thousand pounds of hard wheat flour to blend with their soft wheat flour. But this year the company has already purchased 1,500 bushels of hard wheat from Wells county growers.

Success of hard wheat production in Wells county is due, to a great extent to the experiments of John M. Kaehr who obtained some hard wheat seed from Kansas five years ago. At first the grain produced was soft, but, according to Kaehr, it is even, harder than the original seed.

The hard wheat produced by Purdue University also figured in the production of that grain.

East of Bluffton many of the farmers raised hard wheat this year and it is being exported from the county.

"Accuse" was asked by an admirer how she liked her leading man in the picture.

"Just fine," Miss Broadman replied. "So far he hasn't bitten me once."

PURDUE TO TEST SOYBEANS SEEDS

Applications From Farmers Wanting Crop Certified for Seed, Should be Made Now

VALUE OF TEST IS SEEN

Experts Show That all Certified Seeds Demand Higher Price—Final Date is August 15

Applications for the inspection of soybeans for certification should be mailed to K. E. Beeson, Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station of Lafayette, Indiana by August 15. Already several applications have been received from growers who realize the importance of certification. Farmers are coming to appreciate more and more the value of seed that meets a high standard as to purity and freedom from diseases, and the premium paid for certified seed rewards such farmers for the ensuing year, and there will doubtless be a wide spread demand for seed that is true to variety. This will be especially true to Manchus Beans which must show practically 100 percent black seed scars by 1926 in order to conform to the variety standard set by the National Soybean Committee.

Certified seed must be 99.8 percent pure as to variety, may contain not to exceed 2 percent of cracked or weather damaged beans, may contain not more than 1 percent foreign matter, and 1 percent mottled beans, and must germinate at least 90 percent. Corn, morning glory, and cockle, are common seeds that will disqualify a sample for certification. A field inspection is first made, and after threshing, inspection is made of a two-quart sample.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR DAIRY MEET

Fifth Summer Field Meeting of State
Dairy Association to be Held at Kentland

WILL BE ON AUGUST 6 AND 7

Detailed Arrangements Made to Accommodate One of Largest Crowds
of Hoosier Dairymen

The committee in charge of the annual field day program announces that plans for the fifth annual summer field meeting of the Indiana State Dairy Association to be held at Kendallville August 6 and 7, have been completed. At a recent meeting of the program committee, the Noble County Farm Bureau and other local organizations offered co-operation to make this one of the biggest summer field meetings in the history of the association.

In addition to the program, including talks by prominent men, a dairy cattle show, judging demonstrations and dairy tours, detailed arrangements were made to accommodate one of the largest crowds of Hoosier dairymen and progressive farmers ever assembled for such a program.

The program follows: August 6, 7:30 p. m. Band Concert—Kendallville Band Stand.

8:00 p. m. "Relation of City to Country," Director G. L. Christie, Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station to be followed by a continuation of the musical program by the city band.

August 7, 9:00 a. m. Judging of Jersey and Holstein cattle at Kendallville Fair Grounds. Demonstration on selecting dairy cattle type will follow the judging.

12:00—Dinner will be served at the Fair Grounds by the ladies of the Home Division of the Farm Bureau.

1:30 p. m. "Farm Bureau Activities," by O. E. Bradfute, President American Farm Bureau, in Grand Stand at Fair Grounds.

2:30 p. m. "Successful Dairying," by Prof. C. T. Conklin, also in grand stand at Fair Grounds.

In the program above, Prof. L. H. Fairchild, Purdue University will judge the Jerseys and R. E. Haeger, Algonquin, Ill., will judge Holsteins. There will be nine classes of each breed judged.

The premiums total over $500 for the show herds, and in addition, $250 for the Holstein and Jersey calf club show. To date 175 dairy cattle have been entered in the show. Additional entries should be made at once to Mayor U. C. Brouse, Kendallville. All entries must be in by August 1. All breeders of purebred Jersey or Holstein cattle are eligible to enter cattle in the show. There will be no charges for entries.

A committee will be located at the Kendallville City Hall to direct all visitors to available rooms.

This extensive summer program will put the Holstein and Jersey type before their respective breeders and dairy farmers. It will apply extension methods more directly to the farmer through the Farm Bureau. It will acquaint dairy farmers of the state with the factors of successful dairying, show the relation between the city and rural community, and bring progressive dairymen, and farmer of the state together.

ALFALFA

As a result of an alfalfa tour held in Elkhart county, the following important facts were brought out: (1) Limestone is necessary on the majority of soils for the successful growing of alfalfa. (2) Grimm or Cossack varieties do better and are far surer in that section than are common varieties. (3) This variety of seed is very scarce at present and that all desiring seed to sow this fall should buy at once. (4) An application of barn-yard manure or organic matter in some form improves results. (5) An application of commercial acid phosphate gives big returns.

Great interest is shown throughout Elkhart county in alfalfa. In one township alfalfa is grown on 180 farms. There will be approximately 1000 acres seeding in Elkhart county this fall.

Washington—John Uphold is at the Indiana State Farm for being ungrateful. Police said John Cunningham met him on the street, fed him and gave him a bed, but during the night, Uphold stole his benefactor's trousers.

Anderson—Hiking one way is enough, said Miss Pearl Shetterly and Mary A. Chambers who have returned here from Yellowstone Park. They hiked their way out.

CIRCULAR SHOWS WORK OF AGENTS

Outlines Work of County Agent and Dwells on Need of Efficient Office
Help

EXTENSION PROBLEMS

Importance of Securing Accurate Reports of Extension Work Done is Stressed

A comprehensive idea of extension work as carried on through the county agricultural agents can be obtained from Department Circular 316, Methods and Results of Cooperative Extension Work, 1922, by H. W. Hochbaum, specialist in extension methods.

During the past few years the general public has come to a better understanding of the position of county agricultural agents. People now realize the educational character of extension work, and regard the county agent as a public official, representing the State college of agriculture, the United States Department of Agriculture and their own rural group. That is not part of his official duties to perform for individual farmers or for organizations such activities as production, marketing or responsibility for social organizations, is better appreciated; the rural public has learned to look to the county agent for what is far more important—the distribution of helpful information in all these fields in such ways as experience has shown to be most effective in reaching a large number of people.

This circular outlines the work of the county agent and dwells on the need of efficient office help if his duties are to be performed for the best good of all. His position is essentially one of leadership and his success may be measured largely by his ability to develop local interest and direct local cooperation.

The circular includes a number of tables showing the number of demonstrations of various kinds and the number of people affected by these demonstrations.

Extension problems are essentially teaching problems. From this point of view the circular discusses the steps necessary in extension effort, and the methods employed in teaching of this kind. The writer states that the tallest possible use of the demonstration as a means of showing people the worth of recommended practices has not yet been made. Many more persons could be shown improved practices by means of tours, meetings, motion pictures, and exhibits.

The importance of securing accurate reports of extension work done is stressed. More attention should be given to finding helpful local leaders who will cooperate successfully with the county agent. There is considerable interest in systematic campaigns to get a greater spread of improved practices. Valuable results are shown from some of these campaigns.

Records show that on December 31, 1922, there were 2,082 county agricultural agents and 159 local negro agents at work.

Extension activities are largely dependent on public support, and the continued demand for county agents indicates that there is a very definite need for special training courses or other work that will better prepare men for this field.

The circular may be obtained by those interested as long as the supply lasts by applying to the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

WHEAT ASSOCIATION FEELS ENCOURAGED

They Have Signed up About Three
Hundred Elevators and Mills to Handle Wheat

The Indiana Wheat Grower's Association feels very much encouraged over the situation all over the state. They have signed up about three hundred elevators and mills which are now handling the wheat of the members.

Storage has been secured in all the big terminals and everything points to a profitable year for the new Cooperative.

Russell Van Hook of Remselaar, Ind., representing the Indianapolis office of the association, was in Rush county last week and made arrangements with the Milroy Milling Company in Milroy to handle the wheat at that point. Rush county is now in position to give all of the wheat pool members elevator connection at their most convenient station.

Fire Blight

By C. T. GREGORY
(Agricultural Extension Dept., Purdue University)

Last year fire blight swept through an orchard of Jonathan's in Franklin county destroying most of the blossom clusters. The other orchards 'round about were not so badly affected and it was somewhat of a puzzle why this orchard should be picked out by the disease. But everything has its explanation and in this case the answer lay right in the middle of the orchard. It was an old Esopus of Spitzenberg tree almost dead with the blight. This old tree was a continual source of supply of the fire blight germs which were spread to the other trees. The bees, tarnish plant bugs and other insects did the spreading.

We have long been told that about the only way to control fire blight is to cut out the blighted twigs, and cankers. This will work but it is a long, expensive task and is much like swatting the few mosquitoes that bite you to eradicate all these pests.

The best way to get rid of any pest is to kill it at the source. So with fire blight, the best way to prevent its ravages is get rid of the germ-filled trees that are active as the distributing center. In the Franklin orchard the Spitzenberg tree had to be cut down, but in other places it may be a pear tree that is the cause of the trouble. These badly infested trees are covered with cankers from which the germs are oozing. These germs are very clever. They surround themselves with a sweetish fluid which the insects like. In eating this sweet fluid the insects get germs on their mouth and later when they feed on the tender plant tissues the germs make their entrance into the plant. Bees are particularly damaging in this way, they carry the germs to the tender flower tissues so causing the common blossom blight.

INTERNAL 'DOPE' IS A BOGUS CURE

Preparations Taken Internally With
Food Will Not Prevent Lice and
Parasites

GOVERNMENT MAKES TEST

Many Farmers Buy the So-Called
Medicines to Help Chickens Get
Rid of Insects

Manufacturing and selling preparations for controlling lice, mites, ticks (blue bugs) and other external parasites of poultry by serving to the fowls in their feed or drinking water is a popular pastime of a number of concerns and one which the United States Department of Agriculture says should not be tolerated. A number of the mixtures advertised for use in controlling external pests by administering in the feed have been tested by the Insecticide and Fungicide Board of the department and all have been found to be ineffective. Among the products which were offered as powders to be mixed with the feed are several containing mixtures of sulphur, charcoal, magnesium sulphate, ferrous sulphate, nux vomica, capsicum, sodium carbonate, naphthalene, lime salt, and sand. Some of the mixtures were lime-sulphur solutions to be added to the drinking water; some calcium

REMOVAL OF STAINS ADDED TO DUTIES OF HOUSEWIFE

Now that the busy summer is here, the housewife has an added responsibility, that of removing stains from cotton clothing. First of all, remember to treat stains promptly, is the suggestion of the home economics extension staff of Purdue University. The following are some of the most common stains, and simple treatments:

Blood: Soak in cold water, wash in ammonia soap and warm water.

Iodine: Dip in wood alcohol and rub if necessary. Rinse thoroughly in cold water.

Mildew: If fresh soak in sour milk, bleach in sun without rinsing. Rinse in warm water after bleaching.

Iron rust: 1st. method. Cover with salt, moisten with lemon juice. Place in the sun to bleach. 2nd. method. Cover the stain with paste made of cream of tartar and water and hold over kettle spout of boiling water until stain disappears.

Grass stain: Rub lard on the stain and allow to stay awhile, then wash with soap and water. Alcohol will also remove the stain and is especially satisfactory if goods cannot be washed.

Tea stains: Immerse in a strong solution of sugar and water. After a few minutes rinse the spots in soft water. Soaking in milk and warm water is also effective.

sulphide tablets of various percentages and having quantities of other chemicals as well. All were tested and found to be ineffective for the purpose advertised.

In view of these numerous tests the board has served notice on the manufacturers who may be selling or contemplating selling the above mentioned products to be used in this manner for controlling external pests of poultry that they are guilty of violating the provisions of the insecticide act of 1910, and that the products are misbranded. The board is of the opinion that these tests are sufficient to strongly indicate that such a method is ineffective and further that it is extremely doubtful if any substance will be found which will be effective when used in the feed, or drinking water. Tests have not been made of all of the mixtures advertised against all of the pests named, but, taking into consideration the tests which have been made and the reputation of the manufacturers, it is believed that it is unlikely that any of the substances proposed, or any combination of them, when fed to chickens will control any of the external parasites infesting them. These preparations are sold for the most part directly to consumers by parcel post.

CULLING CHICKENS IMPORTANT THING

Egg Production in Chickens Can be Increased if Flock is Culled This
Fall

Egg production in chickens is inherited. Some hens will lay four or six months while others may lay nine or even twelve months without taking a vacation. Culling work can be done most accurately in late summer or early fall.

A laying hen will usually show a depth of three to five "fingers" between pelvic bones and keel and a wide spread between the pelvic bones a large moist vent. If a yellow skinned hen, the yellow will be faded out from around the vent, from the edge of the eyelid, from the earlobes in leghorns and from at least the base of the beak. A hen not laying will usually show the opposite of these characteristics. High yearly production in addition will be indicated as follows: A broad back, with width carried well to tail a deep, square "slab-sided" body, a clean cut, alert feminine head, neither beefy nor yet so long as to indicate lack of vitality; and soft, thin loose skin.

It is very essential that a good egg laying mash be fed hens one month or six weeks before they are culled. Otherwise, some good producing hens may be thrown out.

HEAT RECORD IS UNBROKEN TODAY

Hottest Day This Summer Was Yesterday With 97 Degrees Recorded, and 94 Today Noon.

INTENSE HUMIDITY ALL NIGHT

Weather Bureau Predicts Relief in Sight With Thunderstorms Late Today or Tonight

Occasional clouds today prevented the mercury from equalling the heat record set Monday, when the thermometer at Mays, in charge of Elwood Kirkwood, recorded 97 degrees as the hottest day this summer.

The mercury at one o'clock this afternoon had mounted up to 94 degrees, and indications were that it would go a little higher this afternoon, as the record is usually set in the middle of the afternoon.

At noon yesterday it was 95 degrees, and the mercury went up two more degrees during the afternoon, according to Mr. Kirkwood. The mercury did not fall very rapidly even after the sun went down, and the humidity was intense all during the night.

The weather bureau at Indianapolis today was predicting some relief, with possibly thunderstorms late today or tonight, and with cooler weather Wednesday.

Showers Are Predicted

Indianapolis, Aug. 5.—Little relief is in prospect before late today from the heat wave which sent the thermometer soaring to 96 yesterday afternoon, a record for the summer, according to weather bureau forecasts.

Local thunderstorms late this afternoon are expected to bring temporary relief.

The highest temperature in the state was reported at Bloomington where the mercury reached 99. Other places reported temperatures ranging from 94 to 97.

Thermometers on many town streets in Indianapolis stood at 94 to 95. The heat sensation was relieved in the state, Mrs. Richard Doring overcame at Greensburg while her baby napping.

Hundreds of persons in Indianapolis spent most of the night in parks and bathing places in an effort to escape the heat.

Cooler Weather Coming

Washington, Aug. 5.—Cooler weather will overpread the Ohio and middle Mississippi rivers and lower lake region tomorrow night, the weather bureau predicted today.

Series of thunderstorms throughout this region tomorrow will break the heat wave.

Factory Man Dies

Kendallville, Ind., Aug. 5.—Willis Walter, 62, a cabinet maker, dropped dead while working in a local factory today. Dilatation of the heart aggravated by the intense heat of the summer was the cause.

THREE ROAD GRADERS PURCHASED BY COUNTY

Commissioners Also Receive Many Bids on Gravel For Road Work Various Communities

STONE BIDS ALSO OPENED

Gravel and stone supplies for the roads of Rush county were received Monday afternoon when the county commissioners met for that purpose in connection with their regular session, and more than 20 bids on gravel were received from all sections of the county.

Bids on stone also were received from the quarries to side trucks located in different points of the county. In this connection, the board also received bids on road equipment machinery, and awarded the contract to Kiger and Company for three road graders. One road grader, an 8 foot Jarmain "road flyer" was bought for $242 and two 10 foot "fixers" were purchased at $249 each.

The Indiana Electric Corporation of Indianapolis also filed their notice with the county board of entering the county with a high tension electric line from Indianapolis to serve the American Paper Products company at Carthage.

WAS MARRIED AT AGE OF 13

Corean Cates Seeks Marriage Annulment in Court Here

A suit seeking to have her marriage annulled, charging that she was only 13 years of age when married, has been filed in the circuit court by Corean Cates, by her next friend, Barney Adams of this city, against Elwin Cates.

The complaint says they were married March 12, 1923 and separated May 22, 1924. The plaintiff alleges that because of her age, she was not capable of negotiating a marriage legally, and that she was not aware of what she was doing. Her husband lives in Mount Vernon, Ill., according to the complaint.

BOYCOTT CITED, FEARS BIG LOSS

A. R. Martner, Manager of Mays Telephone Exchange, Says Farmers Organized Against Them

RATE BOOSTED 25 CENTS

Spiceland and Mays Exchange, Owned Jointly, Cannot Survive The Financial Loss

The telephone exchange at Mays, in northern Rush county, is facing bankruptcy, according to A. R. Martner, manager of the Spiceland telephone company, that owns and operates the two exchanges. The cause of the alarm is due to a boycott on account of the increase in rates that became effective August 1. Since the first of the month, 120 rural subscribers have ordered their phones removed, the manager says.

Martner charges a deliberate boycott and conspiracy on the part of the farmers in discontinuing telephone service and asserts that it will be only a question of time until his company is in federal court. When the case reaches federal court, the boycott and alleged conspiracy may take on a serious aspect.

The order of the commission was issued on June 27 and the new rates became effective August 1. The rates in Mays and Spiceland were unchanged and the principal increase was made on rural telephone, those being boosted from $1.25 a month to $1.50 a month.

The figures before the public service commission showed that the company had a deficit of $33,000 on its net income last year and that the deficit for the first three months of 1924 was $354,91. The rate established was contemplated to provide the company with about $1,300 additional revenue.

Mr. Martner estimates that with 120 subscribers quitting, the company will lose $2,100 revenue annually and that it will be impossible to operate the two exchanges very long with this loss of revenue. The utility is in a peculiar situation. Its earning power is limited by the public service commission and this fact seems to have been lost sight of by the farmers. It is pointed out that the farmers have recourse in the courts in case they are dissatisfied with the commission's order.

Two and one-half years ago the rates of the company were increased, and under a threat of a large loss in subscribers, the rates were modified. Officials of the company say they have reached the point where the additional revenue is absolutely required. At the hearing before the public service commission no great fight was made over the proposed increase in rates, but as soon as the order was issued, it is charged, meetings were held and a concerted effort made to get subscribers to discontinue the service.

Martner states that the subscribers in the two towns are remaining loyal to the company and that the sole kick seems to be coming from the farmers. It is a peculiar situation. If the company is forced into the hands of a receiver the rates would be unchanged because under the law a utility is entitled to a reasonable return on the investment. It is not likely the commission would sanction another telephone company in Spiceland as the field is not large enough for competition. The plant will probably continue to be maintained.

STREET PROJECTS PROGRESSING FAST

BOULEVARD ROCK BEING LAID

The laying of concrete on Morgan street was completed last Monday, indicating an early completion of the asphalt street which has been under construction this summer. Now that all of the concrete has been laid, the next step will be to place the asphalt coating on top, for a thickness of two inches.

The machinery used in placing the asphalt is now completing a job at Newcastles and will be brought here as soon as the work is finished in that city. The concrete has to stand ten days before it can be used, and it is expected that the asphalt machinery will not be shipped here for two weeks, and after that, the construction work can be finished within a few days time.

The work of constructing Memorial Park Boulevard in the north-west portion of the city, around the park, is now under way in full blast, and the laying of the heavy rock foundation is progressing rapidly. The heavy rocks are rolled solidly together, and then additional layers of rock and asphaltum will be laid, making the complete depth of the street 94 inches.

SEEN HERE MONTHS AGO

Cars propelled by gasoline are now being given a thorough test by officials of the Big Four railroad company and will probably be placed in operation on several divisions of the company before winter. It has been reported that there is a possibility of the motor cars being used on the Maysville division from Fairland and on the Columbus division from Greensburg, where traffic is not so heavy as on the main lines. It is also understood that one of the cars might replace passenger train No. 136 between Indianapolis and Cincinnati.

One of the cars was made at Washburn several months ago and made a

SIGHT FLIERS NEAR ICELAND

Round the World Aviators Reported to be Nearing the Port at Reykjavik

BAD WEATHER IN SIGHT

Conditions Favorable Today, But Next Lap to Greenland Showed Bad Weather Signs

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 5.—The American round the world fliers were sighted sailing toward port here at 12:17 p. m. today.

Aboard the U. S. S. Richmond, Hornafjord, Iceland, Aug. 5 (By wire to the United Press).—Today's lap of the American world flight, which was to be resumed by Lieuts. Lowell Smith and Eric Nelson, if weather permits, was from Hornafjord, skirting the Iceland coast to Reykjavik.

The little naval flotilla that is guarding the route swung into position, the cruiser Raleigh acting as station ship at Hornafjord, the Billingsley going to Portland, the Reid to a point 20 miles off Reykjavik, while the scout cruiser Richmond, acting as flagship, was due at the fliers' destination at 2 p. m.

Conditions appeared fairly good for flying over the 310 mile route from Iceland, but those at Greenland, whether the airmen go next were reported most unfavorable.

From now on there will be but two American world flight planes for Mrs. Leigh Wade has given up hopes of rejoining his companions.

The plane, the Boston, sank in the sea near the Faroe Islands.

"I am waiting orders from the war department, Lieut. Wade said. 'But I see no possibility of continuing the flight, unless another machine and parts were shipped to Kirkwall.'"

Britisher Drops Out

Cordova, Alaska, Aug. 5.—"For the sake of the Royal Air Force, I am sorry to have failed so. The condition of the plane makes it impossible for flying," Major A. Stuart McLaren wireless to the British Air Ministry at London today from the British cruiser Thiepval.

The airman abandoned his world flight, of which he had covered slightly more than 11,000 miles, because of a crash at Nikolski, in the Kommandorski Islands, off Siberia.

ACCIDENT VICTIM IS BURIED TODAY

Everett M'Daniel, Age 18, of Near Arlington, Succumbs From Pneumonia That Developed

INJURED RIDING A BICYCLE

The funeral services for Everett Lawrence M'Daniel, eighteen year old son of Elzie M'Daniel, residing south of Arlington, who died Sunday morning at the Major Hospital in Shelbyville, were held this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Wesleyan Methodist church north of Manilla, and burial took place in the Arlington cemetery. The services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Glover.

The deceased died of pneumonia, that developed from injuries he suffered in an accident three weeks ago. The young man was riding a bicycle on the road between Arlington and Gwynnville, and was struck by an automobile. He was taken to the hospital in Shelbyville for an examination. A broken arm and internal injuries were found and his condition was considered serious from the start. A post mortem examination of the body revealed a crushed chest that caused the pneumonia condition which was the direct cause of the death.

Following the death the body was taken to the home of his grandparents, Mrs. and Mrs. John M'Daniel living south of Arlington. Besides the father and grandparents, the boy is survived by one sister Miss Opal M'Daniel, at home.

Mexico City, Aug. 5.—Four of the agraristas bandits who shot and killed Mrs. Rosale Evans, woman ranch owner and a British subject, were captured by Federal scouts yesterday and, summarily executed, according to private messages here today.

Mrs. Evans was murdered as she was returning to her ranch in Pueblo Saturday and the payroll she was carrying was stolen.

Meantime the government was active in investigating the tragedy.

TAKEN TO PRISON FROM HERE

State Authorities Revoke Parole of Davidson Riley

Davidson Riley, the self confessed chicken thief, who was arrested several weeks ago when poultry dealers suspected him, has been taken back to the state prison in violation of his parole.

When he was arrested and placed in jail, he was out on a parole from the prison, having been sentenced from here on a forgery charge. He served a portion of his sentence, and was released last September. In revoking his sentence, he will have to continue serving the time on the forgery sentence, until the state authorities release him. Riley lived at Straughn, in Henry county.

SAYS LOEB HAS DISEASED MIND

Boston Psychiatrist, Witness at Judicial Hearing, Continues Testimony at Trial

HE CITES SIX REASONS

Self Confessed Murder Has Twisted Emotions and Vivid Fantasies, He Declares

By EDWIN C. DERR
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Criminal Court Room, Chicago August 5.—Richard Loeb has a "thoroughly diseased mind," Dr. Win. Healy, Boston psychiatrist, testified at the judicial hearing of Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., for the murder of Robert Franks when it was resumed at 10:33 a. m. today.

"That is the conclusion I have reached after a thorough examination of Loeb," the psychiatrist said. This conclusion, Dr. Healy said, was based on the following reasons: 1.—His abnormal inner mental life. 2.—His twisted emotions. 3.—His lack of sympathy for others. 4.—His lack of feeling for his own misconduct. 5.—His vivid fantasies. 6.—His pathological split personality.

"The fact that he carried his vivid fantasies over into every day life of activity and because it is unthinkable that a mentally normal person would commit such a heinous crime, I am even more convinced that my conclusions are correct," the witness said.

"I have watched their actions in the court room and they only tend to confirm my opinion."

The crime is a direct result of diseased motivation of Loeb's mental life, Dr. Healy said. "Loeb's twisted emotional life and Loeb's coming together with another abnormal personality in the person of Leopold caused the consummation of the crime the witness said.

"His most remarkable trait was caused by the coming together of these two boys each with abnormal characters," the doctor said.

Chief Defense Attorney Clarence Harrow personally brought out the fact that the doctor is receiving $250 a day and then he turned him over to State's Attorney Robert Crowe for re-examination.

Medical testimony introduced by the defense in the Leopold-Loeb murder hearing will be used against the youth slayers of Robert Franks by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, according to plans practically completed today.

Crowe believes he can turn the defense evidence to the advantage of the prosecution and force the question of the sanity of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb before a jury.

The state has been given what Crowe terms a "solid grip" by the statement of Dr. Win. Healy, Boston psychiatrist, that the boys are mentally diseased and mentally unbalanced.

This analysis of the mental condition of the slayers "means nothing more or less than legal insanity," Crowe told the United Press. If he can't send the boys to the gallows, Crowe hopes to send them to an asylum for the criminal insane. Crowe believes Dr. Healy's assertion shows beyond a doubt the need for a jury to pass on the mental of the boys. He also believes the evidence of the defense glenists will convince a jury the youths are insane. Crowe was just

INSTITUTE HERE

ALL NEXT WEEK

Morning Sessions for County Teachers will be Held at Court House as in Former Years

GOOD INSTRUCTORS NAMED

Dr. Vincent Will Return and Mrs. Martha Stubbs will be in Charge of Work

The Rush County Teachers' Institute will again be a part of the annual Rush County Chautauqua, and the instructors, have been obtained for the week. The sessions for the institute will be held in the assembly room at the court house, as in former years.

The teachers are offered combination tickets, with the Chautauqua, which includes all fees. Two percent will be added to the general average on a teacher's license for perfect attendance at all sessions of the institute.

Officers and committees for the institute, which will be held next week, are as follows:

B. F. Farthing, chairman of institute; Miss Dora McKay, secretary; B. D. Farthing, J. H. Scholt, E. R. Butler, A. M. Taylor, R. L. Power, program committee; A. M. Taylor, Blythe Seales, John M. Koeh, Normal V. Patterson, Grant Cooper, Resolution Committee.

The instructors of the institute are Dr. Leon H. Vincent, Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Martha J. Stubbs, Indianapolis, Indiana. In securing the services of Dr. Vincent and Mrs. Stubbs the teachers, and the people of Rush County are to be congratulated. Dr. Vincent has been for a number of years, a member of the staff at the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and has delivered there more than a hundred lectures. For five seasons he has given courses at the University of Chicago and at Columbia University. His lectures deal with Great English and American Men of Letters.

Last year he gave us Great American Men of Letters—this year, he brings for our consideration Great English Men of Letters. Mrs. Martha J. Stubbs, co-worker with Dr. Vincent, in this year's institute program was formerly connected with the city schools in Indianapolis, as a teacher and later as a special supervisor of regular classroom work. She has had quite an extensive experience in public school work and is a widely known lecturer on Child Psychology. She has a real message for rural and city teachers.

Miss Alice Pieroli, Jamestown, Indiana, will have charge of the Music. Miss Pieroli is the County Supervisor of Music for the ensuing year, recently elected in this position by the County Board of Education. For the last four years she has been the Assistant Supervisor of Music in Hendricks county, and comes to this county with quite a reputation.

SHERIFF HUNT HAS FIVE MEN TO BOARD

ANOTHER ONE FOR CONTEMPT

Sheriff S. L. Hunt has a house full of boarders today, and the jail has had frequent visitors during the past week. The latest arrest is Albert Theis, who was arrested near Winchester on a complaint from this court, charging him with contempt of court. The sheriff has five prisoners, four of whom are unable to give bond. The other one, Russell Belmont is serving a 30 day jail sentence on a liquor law violation. Theis will be held until September 1, unless he can provide $1,000 bond. He is charged with failing to comply with orders of the court following a divorce hearing.

The other prisoners who are unable to give bond are Walter Boomershire of near Knightsburg, who is held on a charge of manufacturing liquor, and whose bond is $5,000; Gerard Goodin who is held on a robbery charge, with bond of $1,500; Cleve Holt, who is held on a charge of larceny, in connection with grain thefts from John Gray.

SUFFERED PAIN FOR YEARS

Mrs. Jahr Finally Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Howard Lake, Minnesota.—"I write to let you know that I have taken several bottles of your medicine in the last three months, and found it to be very good. I had pains and other troubles women have and was not able to do my work. Seeing your 'Ad.' in the paper, I thought of giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I got good results from it and feel able to do my housework now. I used to have lots of pains, but after taking the medicine I am relieved from pains that I had suffered from for years. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends, and hope this letter will be satisfactory for you to publish."—Mrs. JENNIE JAHR, R.R. No. 2, Box 21, Howard Lake, Minn.

Obituary
Lucinda Jane Zorne, the daughter of Darius L. and Mary Landis Davis, natives of Pyle Co. Ohio, was born 3 miles north of Arlington, Rush county, Indiana, January 4th, 1850, and departed this life July 24th, 1924, aged 74 years, 6 months 20 days. She was a member of the Christian church at Arlington, Ind., in her early life but in the early 80's, she put her membership in the church at Hannegan.

At the time of her death she was a member of the Church of Christ, Little Blue River.

She was united in marriage to Francis M. Zorne and they began housekeeping on a farm owned by Lowrey Collins, 2 miles north of Arlington, and in 1874 they moved to Hancock Co., near Clayland, Ind., returning to Rush county in 1875, and after a long period of toil and fatigue they accumulated enough to buy a small farm, in the north part of the county.

A few years later they moved to Carthage where the husband died in April 1914.

She continued living in Carthage until the time of the accident in which her hip was broken and she was made a cripple for the remainder of her life.

She was of a family of 12 children of whom 10 grew to maturity. Of these only 3 sisters, Mrs. Charlotte Henley, Mrs. Louisa Davis of Indianapolis and Mrs. Mary Miller of Carthage and one brother Mr. Clinton Davis of near Rushville, survive her.

She also leaves one son Rolla E. Zorne of Gings, Ind., and many nieces, nephews and friends to mourn her loss.

Oh, still, white face of perfect peace, Untouched by passion. Freed from pain— He who ordained that thy work should cease Took to himself the ripened grain.

Motorists Want to Know

Motorists frequently put this question to attendants at service stations of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana):

"Is it not a fact that gasoline prices vary more throughout the United States than do the prices of any other product?"

The answer is quoted from the Oil and Gas Journal issue of June 12, 1924:

"Gasoline prices are more uniform than most of the widely utilized commodities. Thirty-five states have gasoline taxes varying in amounts from 1 to 4 cents. This fact would necessitate a difference in retail prices of as great as 4 cents in some states. Crude oil is found in a comparatively small area of the United States and this fact also necessitates variations in the retail prices due largely to the difference in transportation costs from the crude producing fields and the refineries to the gasoline consuming areas. The price differences, however, are not as great as in many other products. For instance, a recent monthly survey made by the United States Bureau of Labor covering twenty-nine cities scattered throughout the United States showed the following high and low range in prices in several commodities: Sirloin steak, 26 to 61.5 cents per lb.; sugar, 9.6 to 12.7 cents per lb.; bituminous coal, $4.50 to $17.40 per ton; flour, 3.3 to 5.5 cents per lb., and oranges, 27.9 to 49.5 cents per dozen. The low in gasoline prices for the same cities was 12.3 cents and the high 20 cents. The survey was made last December when gasoline prices were lower than they are at the present although the same price range is in effect."

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) serves the automobilist public by maintaining at convenient intervals throughout the Middle West, an efficient chain of service stations, which sell gasoline and oils of uniform high quality, at prices as nearly uniform as freight rates and tax laws permit.

The price of gasoline sold by this Company is subject only to the uncertainty of economic laws, which no commodities may avoid.

This highly trained organization of 27,000 men and women is straining every nerve and fibre that you may have gasoline when and where you want it—of highest quality and at a price which is fair, equitable and low at all times.

Thrilling Picture

"Vengeance of the Deep," the big undersea picture which comes to the Castle theatre today, besides being highly unusual is intensely thrilling as well. Produced by A. B. Barringer in the Hawaiian Islands, the cast includes Ralph Lewis, Virginia Brown Faire, Van Matamore, Harmon McGregor, William Anderson, "Smoke" Turner, Maida Vale and score of natives.

It is a story of the South Seas and centers around the great pearl fisheries, many number of thrills coming from episodes on the bottom of the ocean. These are the most extraordinary submarine scenes ever filmed, for instead of showing the customary views of men in unwieldy divers' suits, the characters freely move and "act" quite as if they were in a motion picture studio.

This was made possible by Mr. Barringer's invention of a special helmet which generates its own air, thus doing away with the usual pipes which enable men to breathe far below the surface of the water. In "Vengeance of the Deep" the characters are clothed as they would be in the open air and consequently are more easily seen in the dim spaces of the oceanic panorama.

"Lilies of the Field" Coming
Another frank and refreshing picture of American life is coming to the Princess theatre Wednesday and Thursday in First National's production of "Lilies of the Field," which has been pronounced by many critics as a masterpiece of emotional appeal. Owing to the huge success which has attended previous showings of this photodrama, the theatre is making extensive preparations to handle capacity audiences.

The picture is notable in so many respects that it is difficult to describe it adequately, or to list its outstanding features in point of merit. Taken as a whole, it is declared to be one of the most perfect pictures that have ever been shown on the screen.

Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle

le are co-featured in "Lilies of the Field," and they duplicate the "hit" they registered in "Black Oxen," another First National success. This talented pair of stars are being hailed far and wide as "the screen's ideal lovers," and their work in "Black Oxen" inspired many thousands of fans to write to the producers, pleading that both be included in future productions. Their appearance in "Lilies of the Field" is a direct answer to that plea from the public.

bilitant at Dr. Healy's statement that the boys were unbalanced.

Clarence Darrow, chief defense attorney, however, showed little concern. "If he thinks he can turn that against us, let him try it," Darrow said. "He won't get very far."

Dr. Healy's analysis of the youth's mental condition was very much along the lines of the first defense alienist, the chief difference being in the introduction of a letter touching on the pathological relations between the youths.

lieving it may have been inspired by political plotters.

"The assassination of Mrs. Evans was planned in San Antonio, Texas," the newspaper EL SOL said, intimating the crime was part of a plan of one of the revolutionary juntas to embarrass the Obregon government.

American Consular Agent Jenkins has arrived in Mexico City from Puebla to give his report on the murder.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES

Word has just been received here of the death of Clarence Bliss, which occurred a few weeks ago at his home in Oakland, Calif., death resulting from shock, caused by an operation for appendicitis. His wife was Mrs. Kate Laughlin Bliss, who was very well known here. She was born here and her girlhood and early marriage life was spent in this city. She is the granddaughter of the late Judge Laughlin, whose memorial is in the court house yard. Mr. and Mrs. Bliss had lived in Oakland, Calif., for a number of years.

REDMEN TO MEET

The regular stated meeting of Tappah Tribe, No. 102, Redmen, will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the lodge rooms in West First street. All members are urged to be present.

BIRTHS

A baby boy was born to the wife of C. C. Tranel of Chicago early this morning at Carthage. Mrs. Tranel was formerly Miss Lillian Kennedy who is well known in this city.

Making the Roads Safe

Acting up the suggestion of a physiologist, following a series of tests, a Chicago taxicab company is setting up a model street section, which will contain in life size about every form of emergency which can happen to an automobile.

New drivers will be given their training there before going out into the regular traffic.

The National Association of Taxicab Owners is planning to bring about the establishment of similar training streets in other principal cities of the United States.

If this form of training is good for taxi drivers, it would likewise be good for the "green" driver who has his first experience at the wheel of an automobile.

The physiologist found that to be a "safe" driver, one must not be obliged to stop and think what he must do in each instance. One brief second might mean the difference between safety and disaster in an emergency. The driver's reaction to a street sign, a traffic signal or a pedestrian stepping suddenly from the curb should be instantaneous and automatic.

The roads will never be safe for motoring until some sort of system is worked out, whereby drivers are given tests before being permitted to drive cars.

Neither will safety be assured until every state has rural police patrolling the roads as a constant menace to speeders to hold them in check.

A Pernicious System

Says President Coolidge, "A government which lays taxes on the people not required by urgent public necessity and sound public policy is not a protector of liberty, but an instrument of tyranny." That means that there should be no extensions of the functions of government except what necessity demands. Time and again Mr. Coolidge has served notice that, so far as he has the power to do so, he will disapprove attempted enlargement of the Federal establishment, with the added cost that such extension would involve. Likewise, Mr. Coolidge has declared he will exercise whatever authority he may possess to prevent the expansion of the Federal-aid-to-states policy. Under the law which the President cannot evade, millions of dollars annually are taken from the Federal Treasury and handed over to the states. It is a pernicious system that has been developed over a long period of years, but which will be halted if Mr. Coolidge has his way.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Here's a problem for our experts on the advance of civilization

Washington, capital city of "the most advanced nation on earth," the seat of America's law-making power, center of educational and social culture, having in its population a higher percentage of "college" folk and a lower percentage of illiteracy than any similarly large city, is close to the top of the list in per capita average of arrests made for violations of law!

Figures just compiled for the year ending July 1 show that, on an average, one inhabitant out of six was arrested for some form or other of lawlessness during the last 12 months.

That, it must be admitted, isn't a very good record. Certainly it is not a good record for the city whose chief business is the making and administering of laws for the rest of the nation.

It represents an average of almost one arrest per family, on the basis of five persons to a family.

With such an example on the part of the capital city, which might be expected to set the pace in the observance of law and recognition of the responsibilities of citizenship, how can the population of less "advanced" cities, where laws and patriotism and civic duty are not so constantly stressed, be expected to regard seriously their obligations to walk punctiliously within the law?

ANALYSIS of the statistics of these arrests show that automobiles and booze are at the root of the increase.

Total arrests for violation of the liquor laws were 13,921. For disregard of automobile laws, 47,025 arrests were made, 2876 being for speeding and 23,228 for traffic "violations."

Major Dan Sullivan, superintendent of police, who, in connection with prohibition, describes Washington as "a hip-pocket town," explains the statistics by saying that Washington isn't growing more lawless but that the police are more vigilant.

So much for Washington's failure to live up to the laws she has. Now for a law she'd like to have, but hasn't.

Much more than additional "prohibitive" laws, saying what must not be done, Washington would like a "permissive" law, granting authority for the development of the water power now running to waste in the Potomac river at Great Falls, 15 miles above the capital.

Such a law, which is recommended by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, would make available 180,000 horsepower of energy, save some hundreds of thousands of tons of coal annually, relieve congestion in freight transportation, and otherwise make Washington a better capital to live in.

Washington would hail this law with joy, and doubtless would give bond that it wouldn't result in a single additional arrest, unless a few power company capitalists should have to be restrained from committing violence.

YOU know the classic story. Sleepy lodger, bothered with asthma. Couldn't budge the stubborn window. Awoke stifled. Heaved a shoe where the pane showed in the dark. Crash of splintered glass. Peaceful slumber. But morning revealed the mirror shattered instead of the window.

Power of imagination. Set it down to that and nothing else when your motoring acquaintance claims that "cheap gas runs as well in hot weather as good gas." His "fresh air" comes from the slightly easier starting which higher temperatures bring to poorest fuels. His cold-weather canniness falls into gentle slumber without reckoning the fact that fuel unfit for winter use must be by very nature unfit for summer driving.

Silver Flash
Gasoline

has no soothing tricks to delude the buyer's mind—and needs none. The same superiorities that make it universally preferred for winter driving are the precise qualities that distinguish it as the correct fuel for use the year around. By intrinsic nature it is all gasoline, quick firing, rich in power, full burning without residue. Its quality and added safety register in mileage, in motor-life and in the pocket book—not in the mere fancy of the buyer's mind.

FIRPO SHOULD WIN WITH RIGHT RULES

By FRANK GETTY
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 5—Fistic treats, such as the Firpo-Wills match would seem to promise, so often disintegrate into thin air for one reason or another, that it is a relief to see everything indicate that the proposed bout will come off on schedule.

The big black already is in training, and Firpo, although he brought considerable avoidapois, together with his other troubles, along with him from South America, lost little time in making tracks for a gymnasium and showing his wares.

Particularly proud is Senior Firpo of his new left hand. Although he complains occasionally of rheumatism in his port elbow, he never loses an opportunity to point with pride to his new-found weapon of offense.

If the South American really can work up a snappy left-hand punch, even if it is only good for jabbing and leading, and if the referee is as good at making Wills fight cleanly as on the occasion of the negro's bout with Bartley Madden, Firpo should take the dusky heavyweight's measure.

Wills, it will be recalled, showed against Madden a woeful lack of ability to fight without holding. He is quick, agile and powerful, and if permitted to clamp his left arm down upon his opponent's wrist and flail away with his own right, he is a dangerous man for anyone to meet, even Dempsey. But forced to stand off and fight in the open, Wills looked bad against the game little Irishman who won so much glory that night over in Lon Island City by standing up to the negro for 15 rounds.

It is doubtful if Wills could stand up under the punishment conveyed by the "Wild Bull's" right. Harry has an excellent defense, and might well weather the storm for a good many rounds, but Firpo has shown an indomitable toughness and ability to keep hammering away, and sooner or later it seems certain he would wear Wills down.

Just now, the Argentine champion is fat, but he will have no difficulty in getting into condition. He talked of fighting a couple of "set-ups" before meeting the ex-stevedore, but Tex Rickard had the final say as to that.

Firpo is nothing if not confident. He feels that he should have beaten Dempsey when they met, and has one or two alibis. He professes to hold Wills rather lightly, and to regard the match as a stepping-stone to a return bout with Jack Dempsey.

The latter's injuries may have further postponed the date of his return to the ring; certainly it is not likely he will be seen in action before the outdoor season of 1925.

It was the prospect of a bout with Dempsey this year, however, which lured Firpo from South America, the Argentine said.

The Browns won their sixth victory in the last seven games when they lunched up a 5-1 win against Washington.

SEATS ON SALE FOR BIG FIGHT

Advance Demand Indicates Record Crowd For Wills-Firpo Scrap September 11

100,000 FANS ARE EXPECTED

Too Far Ahead to Pick a Winner, Although From This Distance, it Looks Like "Firpo"

By FRANK GETTY
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 5—Seats go on sale today for the Wills-Firpo fight at Boyle's Thirty Acres on September 11 and from the advance demand there isn't a doubt in the world but that the bout will draw more spectators than any previous encounter in which a title was not at stake.

Tex Rickard, surveying an early August snowstorm of telegrams and letters demanding seats, already is talking of squeezing 100,000 fans into the Jersey City stadium.

Thus Harry Wills, whom we rather wrote out of things after his poor showing against little Bartley Madden over in Brooklyn a couple of months back, gets his chance at a big fight and big money after all.

And Firpo despite his "retirement" his affairs with second raters in the Argentine and his myriad activities outside the prize ring, finds another foothold on the ladder to the world's heavyweight championship.

It is rather too far ahead to pick a winner with any certainty but from this distance, we would say "Firpo". The big South American has begun his colorful training stunts at Spa, losing no time in getting behind a wicket that clicks off a dollar apiece from those who would watch him work out.

Harry Wills is out at Southampton, L. I., rounding slowly into shape.

Preliminary betting makes the men even money choices. But with what Wills showed and failed to show against Madden, there seems every possibility that if Firpo can get himself into as good shape as he was against Dempsey, he should be able to take all the black can give and wear down and flatten his man within ten rounds or so. Wills might even stand up for the limit, which would be a most unsatisfactory outcome in view of the fact that these two are in there more for a crack at Jack Dempsey than for anything else.

Wills showed an unfortunate inability to fight effectively at long range and to fight at all without his old trick of holding and hitting. When the referee in the Madden bout made him stop this, the negro was rather helpless.

Firpo, on the other hand is dangerous anywhere within the radius of that terrible right arm.

HANK GOWDY GETS UNUSAL MENTION

New York Giant's Catcher. Who Enlisted in World War Gets Army Field Named For Him

FIRST LEAGUER TO ENLIST

By FRANK GETTY
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 5—Unusual honor comes today to Hank Gowdy, lanky catcher of the New York Giants.

The United States army and organized baseball have united to make the bashful veteran as uncomfortable as possible with speeches, engrossed testimonials, a military review and a lot of applause.

All this because Hank back in 1917 "jumped" the National League for the bigger game and went overseas for two years' service in the ranks of the A. E. F. Gowdy was the first big league ball player to enlist, showing the way eventually to a good many others.

The occasion is the formal informing of Hank that a government ball park and athletic field at Fort Benning, Ga., has been named "Gowdy Field" in his honor.

The ceremony saves a little of the notifying of Davis and Mr. Coolidge that they have nominated standard bearers of their party, because Gowdy already knows about it.

"Why didn't you name it after Eddie Grant?" he asked straightforwardly. "I came back, but Eddie (former New York captain) didn't."

NEW PLAYERS ADDED ON RUSHVILLE CLUB

Local Baseball Team Will Journey to Shelbyville Sunday With Stronger Team

NOONAN SIGNED TO PITCH

The Rushville baseball club will appear in the field again Sunday, after a short rest, and several new players have been added with the hope of increasing interest in the sport, and incidentally defeat some of the best teams in this vicinity.

The local club will take on the Shelbyville team in that city Sunday, and they expect to even up for the defeat handed here. Local rooters are urged to make the trip and witness the contest.

The local management announces that Noonan, former International League star will pitch for the locals against Shelbyville, while Redmond will be on the mound for that city. Rushville will also have a fast, hard hitting short stop in Feasel, who has been playing in the Three I League. The following players are asked to report at the diamonds here for practice on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week: A. Joyce, M. Joyce, Sharp, Shay, McCarty, Pearsey, Byrne and Yazel. Practice to start at 5 o'clock. The management expects to book the fastest teams around here for future games.

Cleveland pounded several Boston pitchers unmercifully and came out on top of a 14-5 game.

New York—Kid Sullivan, junior lightweight champion, signed to meet Pepper Martin at the Queensboro stadium August 14.

State Golf Tourney Is In Second Day Of The Meet On Big Course At Fort Wayne

COMPETITION IS KEEN

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 5—The second qualifying round of 18 holes was being played at the Fort Wayne country club today in the state golf tourney.

Jack Tuitt, Highland Golf and country club, Indianapolis, and W. F. Martin, Riverside Club, Indianapolis, turned in low scores of 72 in the opening round yesterday.

Tuitt went out and back in 36, 36, par for the course. Martin was one over per going out and one under par coming in, leaving him tied with Tuitt.

E. Dollman, Pleasant Run Club, J. Ledbetter, Michigan City and Robert Rescner, Kokomo, were close behind the two leaders with scores of 73.

A total of 24 turned in cards in the seventies. The competition is much keener this year than at the Muncie tourney last year, and indications are that a score of around 165 will be necessary to win a place among the 32 who will compete in the match play.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mull entertained at dinner Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cotton of Manila and daughter Edna of Indianapolis, and Mr. and Mrs. Ova Cassidy.

A card party will be given Wednesday evening at the home of Thomas N. Ansberry, for the benefit of the new Catholic school. Everybody is welcome to attend. The playing will start promptly at eight o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. John Montgomery of North Spencer street, have announced the engagement of their daughter Miss Mabel, to Ernest Moore, of this city the marriage to take place in early September of this year.

Mrs. O. M. Dale entertained the members of the Tuesday Bridge club this afternoon at her home in North Main street. Three tables of cards were in session during the afternoon and one out-of-town guest Mrs. Frances Moore, of Chicago, Ill., was present. Refreshments were served to the guests during the afternoon.

Mrs. Will Trennepohl entertained with a card party Monday evening at her home in Bema Vista Avenue. The guests gathered around the six tables and spent a most enjoyable evening with Bridge. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

The former pupils and present pupils of Mrs. Lucy Wellman Meredith's music classes will hold a picnic at Memorial Park in this city

Wednesday. The program will begin at ten o'clock and will continue throughout the day with a pitch-in dinner at the noon hour.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Alter, living southwest of this city entertained several guests at dinner Sunday, including Mrs. Effie Griffith of Long Beach, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Reila Alter and daughter Beulah of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scull and daughter Dorothy of near Milroy.

Miss Anna Mary Cowan entertained with a rook party Monday evening at her home in West Fourth street, honoring Miss Edna Stephenson of Monmouth, Ill., who is visiting Miss Cowan and Anna and Elizabeth Waite. Other guests were Miss Florence Elliott and Miss Frances McKibben. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch were served after the rook games.

Miss Hattie Emons was hostess to the members of the Young Ladies Mission Circle Monday evening at her home in North Sexton street. She was ably assisted by the Misses Zora Carney and Florine Gronier and Mrs. Curt Hester. Miss Gronier sang a beautiful solo, accompanied on the piano by Miss Virginia Lucas, and Miss Lucas played several piano selections. The regular missionary program was given following the musical numbers. During the social hour delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The Woman's Missionary Society

NOTED QUARTET FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Adanac Quartet, Foremost of Male Singers, Will be Here on Closing Day August 17

ASSEMBLY BEGINS ON SUNDAY

Program Committee Has Made it a Point to Have Headline Attraction Each Day

One of the finest male quartets on the annual Chautauqua season tour this year, will be in Rushville on August 17, the closing day of the Rush County Chautauqua, and although the assembly opens Sunday August 10th, every day is planned as a banner day.

In preparing the program this year the committee in charge made it a point not to designate any particular day, and they made up the varied program to suit all tastes.

The Adanac Quartet, which comes on the closing, is one of the highest priced musical organizations to appear. Each singer has a wide reputation, and the attraction will no doubt leave a good impression with the audience.

The quartet will give the entire program in the afternoon, and provide an hour's prelude at night. They will be followed at night with an address by Prof. Ray Moulton of Chicago University, a noted lecturer on astronomy.

The Adanac Quartet was organized several years ago and is recognized today throughout Canada and the United States as one of the foremost male quartets, appearing before the public. It has often been said that four soloists singing in ensemble could not get that perfect blend and unanimity of tone so essential when singing together as a quartet. How completely and finally that fallacy has been shattered is demonstrated by the wonderful, luscious, and organlike quality of tone that these four gentlemen produce.

They sing with perfect ease and a proper conception and consideration for shading with splendid legato and dramatic effects that not only thrill and become mighty in interpretation but please and soothe an audience at all times, no matter how particular and critical it may be.

Imagine four skilled solo instrumentalists playing a concerted number. Pick out, if you can, the different instruments. Here are four vocal soloists, fused throughout the concert.

FARM BOYS CAMP FOR STATE FAIR

Will be Taught Farming Methods by Experts, as a New Feature for the Fair

SIMILAR TO BOY SCOUT CAMP

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 5.—A camp where Indiana farm boys will be taught farming methods will be one of the features of the Indiana State Fair here, Sept. 5 to 11 this year, according to members of the state fair board today.

The camp will be on the northwest part of the ground and will be on the order of a Boy Scout encampment. It will be conducted similar to the school for girls which is held at the fair annually. The boys will be under the supervision and instruction of M. L. Hall and Fred Kern, both of Purdue University.

They will be housed in barracks 130 by 40 ft. which will accommodate 100 cots and is equipped with showers and other modern conveniences.

Three scholarships will be awarded to boys attaining the highest records.

The usual girls institute will be conducted during the week of the fair and the week preceding. Intensive courses in home economics with demonstrations including courses in cook, sewing, needlework, canning, preserving, home sanitation, and decoration will be conducted. Five scholarships will be given.

Both the girls and boys attending at the fair will be chosen from every county in the state from farm and home economics clubs through merit contests conducted by local domestic science organizations, farm bureaus and chambers of commerce.

EARLY HISTORY OF CHURCHES IN ORANGE TOWNSHIP, RUSH COUNTY

By THE REV. JOHN T. SCULL

In 1840 the first church was built in Orange township, Rush county. It was called Ebenezer Methodist Episcopal church and was two miles north of Moscow. Two or three years later another M. E. church was built two miles west of Moscow, and was named Mt. Gerizim M. E. church. Two years later another church was built two miles west of Mt. Gerizim and was called Vienna M. E. church.

The Ebenezer church in that day was considered a large building. It was often crowded with persons eager to hear the preaching. The building was devoid of paint inside and out. The pulpit was a large box affair boarded up on all sides. It was entered by ascending three steps, going through a door which was closed and fastened by a wooden button to keep children and dogs out. The breast board was so high that a short preacher could scarcely see over it. The windows were small and high from the floor. When services were to be held at night, it was announced for early candle lighting. The preachers asked the members to bring candles. These candles were placed in brackets which were hung on the walls on the church.

The other churches named were just about like Ebenezer except they were painted. They and five and six others outside Rush county were served by the same pastor, assisted by the local preachers. Most of them were able and efficient men though engaged in secular business during the week.

We name a few Robert McDuffee, Thomas Jones and Daniel Tevis, the latter who was a successful physician, farmer and preacher, the father of John S. Tevis and grandfather of Virgil Tevis, both able preachers and well known in Indiana and especially in Rush county.

Not many of the pastors of the early days can now be named, but we recall the name of W. T. McDuffee, called the wild Irishman. At times in his enthusiasm he would leap over the pulpit into the altar, walk up and down the aisle, exhorting the people. At times many fell prostrate on the floor. Nimrod Kerriek (grandfather of Tom Mull of Manila) was another and efficient circuit rider of these early days. The three churches named are no more.

The first church in Moscow was built in about 1855. A. S. Layton was the contractor and builder. Shortly after it was erected Ebenezer and Mt. Gerizim were abandoned, the members going to Moscow and Vienna. Ebenezer was torn down. Mt. Gerizim was sold and moved out on a farm and used for a barn and crib. Vienna was replaced by a more modern church, which was burned one year ago.

The membership at Moscow came from the country north of the town. In 1873 a revival meeting was held 3 miles north of Moscow in a school house. In 1874 a church was built here and the village is now known as Gowdy. Immediately Moscow was abandoned. Later the Christian church bought the building and used it for a few years, and finally erected an up-to-date church building. The old building was sold and moved to a farm.

About 1855 Gabriel McDuffee held

NEW BRAINS, NOT NEW FACES NEEDED FOR THE MOVIES

By HAROLD E. SWISHER
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Hollywood, Aug. 5.—Speak a few kind words in memory of the dear departed—the movie shiek is dead!

At least such is the declaration of those close in touch with the evolutionary activities in studio-land—who have an ear to the ground, or the radio, or whatever other sources of film players' gossip there are available.

Without the aid of stacomb, tanned skin or burning brown eyes, the plain type of American manhood will prevail in the fall styles of movie heroes.

The slick-haired, foreign-looking heroes are in the descendant, many critics believe. The demand among Hollywood producers picturing fall and winter movie plots is for the plain type of American. The Conway Tearles, the Thomas Meighans, the Pat O'Malley and the Milton Sills are the boys now signing contracts for the big parts.

Even the dark-skinned (and eyed) leading men with the "Latin look" are stepping out of their character and trying to appear as if they were born some where between Times Square and the Golden Gate.

In short, the vase-line-haired exponents of virine are doing a "fade out". Patent leather hair will be conspicuous by its absence on the screen next fall. The hair will, indeed, be worn slightly ruffled. Long cigarette-holders and freshly waxed mustaches will be taboo.

Producers are getting away from freak types in leading men, and are seeking, not the collar models, but plain looking fellows who might pass for your next-door neighbor—and who you'd be glad to have for one.

The movie heroines who have to smuggle up to leading men through several hundred feet of film seem to like the change, too, if expressions of opinion gained from some of cinema's fairest can be taken as typical.

"I'm glad the American type of hero is coming back to his own," says Colleen Moore. "The men who played opposite me have never been the 'shiek' type. Give me John Barrymore, Lloyd Hughes, Frank Mayo or others of their ilk everytime."

Helene Chadwick chimes in with "The boys with the olive skin are due in their place, but their place is not the characterization of the average American youth. See America first is my slogan, and that applies to leading men as well as the Grand Canyon."

So, flappers, take note! If you

worship at the shrine of the movie shiek, rush to the theatre now and get your last few looks. For soon, according to the opinion in many Hollywood quarters, he will be buried alongside the movie vamp, who once commanded the spotlight but has long since been faded down in character or pushed out of the picture.

Early History of Churches in Orange Township Rush County

a meeting in a grove five miles north-east of Moscow. Quite a number were gathered into the Christian church and a building was erected by A. S. Layton. This building was called the Big Flatrock Christian church. It was replaced by a new modern up-to-date building two years ago and is called Knowles-Shaw Christian Chapel in honor of the Rev. Knowles Shaw who held a very successful revival there in 1867 or 1868.

An old Lutheran church stands

near the northwest corner of Orange township, but for several years has not been used as a house of worship. This church was built sometime between 1840 and 1850. Orange township has but three houses of worship. One M. E. at Gowdy; two Christian, one at Moscow, and one two miles east of Gowdy. With the good roads and convenient speedy ways of going, all that desire to do so can attend services at these churches.

New Brains, Not New Faces

ture altogether.

The screen needs new brains, not new faces. This is the contention of Harry Rapf, associate executive of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, and the accredited discoverer of some of Filmland's most promising directors and scenarists.

"The clamor for 'new faces' on the screen is just a habit," Rapf declares. "The real need of the screen is for new brains. Pictures are made over and over again with the same plots. The same scenario writers do the scripts on them. With many of them, their chief recommendation is not 'so many good pictures' but 'eight years' experience as a director' or 'so many pictures made.'"

"I was searching for new brains when I engaged Monta Bell to direct 'Broadway After Dark'. It was his first attempt. The completed picture is an excellent example of my point.

"Charlie Chaplin has never directed a feature picture before he made 'A Woman of Paris'. As a result, the picture was voted the most intelligent and original picture in many years. The reason is simply that he combined originality, new ideas and new methods of treatment, with his ability and intelligence."

For the first time in his brilliant career, Jackie Coogan is to work in New York. The little star will go east for certain scenes in his next picture, "The Rag Man", which requires a Bowery atmosphere.

Late in August, Jackie will quit his picture work for a time and prepare to sail the first week in September "in command" of a relief ship filled with food and clothing for orphans of the Near East.

WELLS COUNTY HAS HARD WHEAT

County Has Done its Bit This Season in Making Indiana Hard-Wheat Producing State

DUE TO KAEHR EXPERIMENTS

Bluffton Milling Company has Purchased 1,500 Bushels of Hard Wheat From Wells County

Bluffton, Ind., Aug 5.—Wells county has done its bit this season in making Indiana a hard-wheat producing state, it was announced here today.

Indiana, in the past has been producing mostly soft wheat and campaigns and experiments have been conducted for many years to make hard wheat production in this state successful. The flour milled from soft wheat cannot be used for making baker's bread and it has been necessary for millers throughout the state to import hard wheat from other states.

Until recently the Bluffton Milling company imported several thousand pounds of hard wheat flour to blend with their soft wheat flour. But this year the company has already purchased 1,500 bushels of hard wheat from Wells county growers.

Success of hard wheat production in Wells county is due, to a great extent, to the experiments of John M. Kaehr who obtained some hard wheat seed from Kansas five years ago. At first the grain produced was soft, but, according to Kaehr, it is, even, harder than the original seed.

The hard wheat produced by Purdue University also figured in the production of that grain.

East of Bluffton many of the farmers raised hard wheat this year and it is being exported from the county.

Academy was asked by an admirer how she liked her leading man in the picture.

"Just fig," Miss Broadman replied. "So far he hasn't bitten me once."

PURDUE TO TEST SOYBEANS SEEDS

Applications From Farmers-Wanting Crop Certified for Seed, Should be Made Now

VALUE OF TEST IS SEEN

Experts Show That all Certified Seeds Demand Higher Price—Final Date is August 15

Applications for the inspection of soybeans for certification should be mailed to K. E. Beeson, Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station of Lafayette, Indiana by August 15. Already several applications have been received from growers who realize the importance of certification.

Farmers are coming to appreciate more and more the value of seed that meets a high standard as to purity and freedom from diseases, and the premium paid for certified seed rewards such farmers for the ensuing year, and there will doubtless be a wide spread demand for seed that is true to variety. This will be especially true to Manchus Beans which must show practically 100 percent black seed scars by 1926 in order to conform to the variety standard set by the National Soybean Committee.

Certified seed must be 99.8 percent pure as to variety, may contain not to exceed 2 percent of cracked or weather damaged beans, may contain not more than 1 percent foreign matter, and 1 percent mottled beans, and must germinate at least 90 percent. Corn, morning glory, and cockle, are common seeds that will disqualify a sample for certification. A field inspection is first made, and after threshing, inspection is made of a two-quart sample.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR DAIRY MEET

Fifth Summer Field Meeting of State
Dairy Association to be Held at Kendallville

WILL BE ON AUGUST 6 AND 7

Detailed Arrangements Made to Accommodate One of Largest Crowds
of Hoosier Dairymen

The committee in charge of the annual field day program announces that plans for the fifth annual summer field meeting of the Indiana State Dairy Association to be held at Kendallville August 6 and 7, have been completed. At a recent meeting of the program committee, the Noble County Farm Bureau and other local organizations offered co-operation to make this one of the biggest summer field meetings in the history of the association.

In addition to the program, including talks by prominent men, a dairy cattle show, judging demonstrations and dairy tours, detailed arrangements were made to accommodate one of the largest crowds of Hoosier dairymen and progressive farmers ever assembled for such a program.

The program follows: August 6, 7:30 p. m. Band Concert—Kendallville Band Stand.

8:00 p. m. "Relation of City to Country," Director G. L. Christie, Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station to be followed by a continuation of the musical program by the city band.

August 7, 9:00 a. m. Judging of Jersey and Holstein cattle at Kendallville Fair Grounds. Demonstration on selecting dairy cattle type will follow the judging.

12:00—Dinner will be served at the Fair Grounds by the ladies of the Home Division of the Farm Bureau.

1:30 p. m. "Farm Bureau Activities," by O. E. Bradfute, President American Farm Bureau, in Grand Stand at Fair Grounds.

2:30 p. m. "Successful Dairying," by Prof. C. T. Couklin, also in grand stand at Fair Grounds.

In the program above, Prof. L. H. Fairchild, Purdue University will judge the Jerseys and R. E. Haeger, Algonquin, Ill., will judge Holsteins. There will be nine classes of each breed judged.

The premiums total over $500 for the show herds, and in addition, $250 for the Holstein and Jersey calf club show. To date 175 dairy cattle have been entered in the show. Additional entries should be made at once to Mayor U. C. Brouse, Kendallville. All entries must be in by August 1. All breeders of purebred Jersey or Holstein cattle are eligible to enter cattle in the show. There will be no charges for entries.

A committee will be located at the Kendallville City Hall to direct all visitors to available rooms.

This extensive summer program will put the Holstein and Jersey type before their respective breeders and dairy farmers. It will apply extension methods more directly to the farmer through the Farm Bureau. It will acquaint dairy farmers of the state with the factors of successful dairying, show the relation between the city and rural community, and bring progressive dairymen and farmer of the state together.

ALFALFA

As a result of an alfalfa tour held in Elkhart county, the following important facts were brought out: (1) Limestone is necessary on the majority of soils for the successful growing of alfalfa. (2) Grimm or Cossack varieties do better and are far surer in that section than are common varieties. (3) This variety of seed is very scarce at present and that all desiring seed to sow this fall should buy at once. (4) An application of barn-yard manure or organic matter in some form improves results. (5) An application of commercial acid phosphate gives big returns.

Great interest is shown throughout Elkhart county in alfalfa. In one township alfalfa is grown on 180 farms. There will be approximately 1000 acres seeding in Elkhart county this fall.

Washington—John Uphold is at the Indiana State Farm for being ungrateful. Police said John Cunningham met him on the street, fed him and gave him a bed, but during the night, Uphold stole his benefactor's trousers.

Anderson—Hiking one way is enough, said Miss Pearl Shetterly and Mary A. Chambers who have returned here from Yellowstone Park. They hiked their way out.

USE RUSH COUNTY PRODUCTS

Save the High Freight Charge

- ☐ Rush County Mills manufacture wonderful flour from Rush County Wheat.
- ☐ It bakes pies, cake and bread "like your mother used to make"
- ☐ Yet we pay freight from one thousand miles away to get our flour.
- ☐ The best and finest apples in the world grow in Rush County.
- ☐ Yet we pay freight for twenty-five hundred miles to get our apples and import them from the Pacific northwest.
- ☐ Rush County grows potatoes which make "food fit for Kings."
- ☐ Yet we send for our potatoes to Michigan, Wisconsin and far away Idaho.
- ☐ Rush County has honest merchants, who sell splendid merchandise.
- ☐ Yet we spend our money with mail order houses and elsewhere in order to get it out of the community.
- ☐ Lincoln said: "When we buy a ton of steel rails abroad, we have the rails, but the foreigner has the money."
- ☐ When we buy at home, we have both the rails and the money.

CIRCULAR SHOWS WORK OF AGENTS

Defines Work of County Agent and
Dwells on Need of Efficient Office
Help

EXTENSION PROBLEMS

Importance of Securing Accurate Reports of Extension Work Done is
Stressed

A comprehensive idea of extension work as carried on through the county agricultural agents can be obtained from Department Circular 316, Methods and Results of Cooperative Extension Work, 1922, by H. W. Hochbaum, specialist in extension methods.

During the past few years the general public has come to a better understanding of the position of county agricultural agents. People now realize the educational character of extension work, and regard the county agent as a public official, representing the State college of agriculture, the United States Department of Agriculture and their own rural group. That is not part of his official duties to perform for individual farmers or for organizations such activities as production, marketing or responsibility for social organizations, is better appreciated; the rural public has learned to look to the county agent for what is far more important—the distribution of helpful information in all these fields in such ways as experience has shown to be most effective in reaching a large number of people.

This circular outlines the work of the county agent and dwells on the need of efficient office help if his duties are to be performed for the best good of all. His position is essentially one of leadership and his success may be measured largely by his ability to develop local interest and direct local cooperation.

The circular includes a number of tables showing the number of demonstrations of various kinds and the number of people affected by these demonstrations.

Extension problems are essentially teaching problems. From this point of view the circular discusses the steps necessary in extension effort, and the methods employed in teaching of this kind. The writer states that the fullest possible use of the demonstration as a means of showing people the worth of recommended practices has not yet been made. Many more persons could be shown improved practices by means of tours, meetings, motion pictures, and exhibits.

The importance of securing accurate reports of extension work done is stressed. More attention should be given to finding helpful local leaders who will cooperate successfully with the county agent. There is considerable interest in systematic campaigns to get a greater spread of improved practices. Valuable results are shown from some of these campaigns.

Records show that on December 31, 1922, there were 2,082 county agricultural agents and 159 local negro agents at work.

Extension activities are largely dependent on public support, and the continued demand for county agents indicates that there is a very definite need for special training courses or other work that will better prepare men for this field.

The circular may be obtained by those interested as long as the supply lasts by applying to the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

WHEAT ASSOCIATION FEELS ENCOURAGED

They Have Signed up About Three
Hundred Elevators and Mills to Handle Wheat

The Indiana Wheat Grower's Association feels very much encouraged over the situation all over the state. They have signed up about three hundred elevators and mills which are now handling the wheat of the members.

Storage has been secured in all the big terminals and everything points to a profitable year for the new Co-operative.

Russell Van Hook of Remscheid, Ind., representing the Indianapolis office of the association, was in Rush county last week and made arrangements with the Milroy Milling Company in Milroy to handle the wheat at that point. Rush county is now in position to give all of the wheat pool members elevator connection at their most convenient station.

Fire Blight

By C. T. GREGORY

(Agricultural Extension Dept., Purdue University)

Last year fire blight swept through an orchard of Jonathan's in Franklin county destroying most of the blossom clusters. The other orchards around about were not so badly affected and it was somewhat of a puzzle why this orchard should be picked out by the disease. But everything has its explanation and in this case the answer lay right in the middle of the orchard. It was an old Esopus of Spitzenberg tree almost dead with the blight. This old tree was a continual source of supply of the fire blight germs which were spread to the other trees. The bees, tarnish plant bugs and other insects did the spreading.

We have long been told that about the only way to control fire blight is to cut out the blighted twigs, and cankers. This will work but it is a long, expensive task and is much like swatting the few mosquitoes that bite you to eradicate all these pests.

The best way to get rid of any pest is to kill it at the source. So with fire blight, the best way to prevent its ravages is get rid of the germ-filled trees that are active as the distributing center. In the Franklin orchard the Spitzenberg tree had to be cut down, but in other places it may be a pear tree that is the cause of the trouble. These badly infested trees are covered with cankers from which the germs are oozing. These germs are very clever. They surround themselves with a sweetish fluid which the insects like. In eating this sweet fluid the insects get germs on their mouth and later when they feed on the tender plant tissues the germs make their entrance into the plant. Bees are particularly damaging in this way, they carry the germs to the tender flower tissues so causing the common blossom blight.

Seymour—When Edward Phillips waded through a cat-of-nine-tails patch barefooted a severe case of blood poisoning set in.

INTERNAL 'DOPE' IS A BOGUS CURE

Preparations Taken Internally With
Food Will Not Prevent Lice and
Parasites

GOVERNMENT MAKES TEST

Many Farmers Buy the So-Called
Medicines to Help Chickens Get
Rid of Insects

Manufacturing and selling preparations for controlling lice, mites, ticks (blue bugs) and other external parasites of poultry by serving to the fowls in their feed or drinking water is a popular pastime of a number of concerns and one which the United States Department of Agriculture says should not be tolerated. A number of the mixtures advertised for use in controlling external pests by administering in the feed have been tested by the Insecticide and Fungicide Board of the department and all have been found to be ineffective. Among the products which were offered as powders to be mixed with the feed are several containing mixtures of sulphur, charcoal, magnesium sulphate, ferrous sulphate, wax, vomica, capsicum, sodium carbonate, naphthalene, lime salt, and sand. Some of the mixtures were lime-sulphur solutions to be added to the drinking water; some calcium

REMOVAL OF STAINS ADDED TO DUTIES OF HOUSEWIFE

Now that the busy summer is here, the housewife has an added responsibility, that of removing stains from cotton clothing. First of all, remember to treat stains promptly, is the suggestion of the home economics extension staff of Purdue University.

The following are some of the most common stains, and simple treatments:

Blood: Soak in cold water, wash in ammonia soap and warm water.

Iodine: Dip in wood alcohol and rub if necessary. Rinse thoroughly in cold water.

Mildew: If fresh soak in sour milk, bleach in sun without rinsing. Rinse in warm water after bleaching.

Iron rust: 1st. method. Cover with salt, moisten with lemon juice. Place in the sun to bleach. 2nd. method. Cover the stain with paste made of cream of tartar and water and hold over kettle spout of boiling water until stain disappears.

Grass stain: Rub hard on the stain and allow to stay awhile, then wash with soap and water. Alcohol will also remove the stain and is especially satisfactory if goods cannot be washed.

Tea stains: Immerse in a strong solution of sugar and water. After a few minutes rinse the spots in soft water. Soaking in milk and warm water is also effective.

Other stains: Rub hard on the stain and allow to stay awhile, then wash with soap and water. Alcohol will also remove the stain and is especially satisfactory if goods cannot be washed.

CULLING CHICKENS IMPORTANT THING

Egg Production in Chickens Can be
Increased if Flock is Culled This
Fall

Egg production in chickens is inherited. Some hens will lay four or six months while others may lay nine or even twelve months without taking a vacation. Culling work can be done most accurately in late summer or early fall.

A laying hen will usually show a depth of three to five "fingers" between pelvic bones and keel and a wide spread between the pelvic bones a large moist vent. If a yellow skinned hen, the yellow will be faded out from around the vent, from the edge of the eyelid, from the earlobe in leghorns and from at least the base of the beak. A hen not laying will usually show the opposite of these characteristics. High yearly production in addition will be indicated as follows: A broad back, with width carried well to tail a deep, square "slab-sided" body, a clean cut, alert feminine head, neither beefy nor yet so long as to indicate lack of vitality; and soft, thin loose skin.

It is very essential that a good egg laying mash be fed hens one month or six weeks before they are culled. Otherwise, some good producing hens may be thrown out.

Rush County Chautauqua

Coliseum Memorial Park Rushville

AUGUST 10th to 17th

The most cherished community enterprise, the Rush County Chautauqua, presents its twentieth annual program, confident of its merit and your approval.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON, AUGUST 10th 2:00 P. M.—Prelude by the Chicago Sextette. This company has been selected from among the best orchestral players of Chicago. Every member is master of his instrument. Lecture—Rev. W. R. Wedderspoon. Rev. Wedderspoon is pastor of the St. James Methodist Episcopal Church of Chicago, and is noted as one of the most eloquent and gifted divines of great pulpits orators.
